Season's First Storm Strikes

With many a muttered under-time, Victorians crawled sleepily from between the warm sheets in the wee small hours this morning to close windows as the season's first storm hit the coast.

That was the major inconvenience caused in this area, it appeared today, as the storm, which has been lashing the north coast for two days, passed into the interior.

Flapping blinds, banging doors and the howl of gusts of about 40 miles per hour were bothersome, but no damage was reported in the Victoria area.

The lower mainland and up-island points were hit hardest. Torrential rains spearheaded the southeast gale with winds in gusts up to 60 miles an hour in Vancouver.

HOUSES DAMAGED

Telegraph, telephone and teletype communications were interrupted there, while small houses were badly damaged at several points on the island and in the Fraser Valley, a British United Press report said.

Trees were uprooted in Vancouver and New Westminster. Top wind velocity in Vancouver, other than gusts, was 51 miles per hour as compared to 36 miles per hour in Victoria.

There was some rainfall here, but Pacha Point, on the west coast, had a record fall of 4.74 inches in 24 hours.

Lights flickered and went out in Vancouver and the Fraser Valley, and only one telephone circuit was left operating to the east.

The storm, a sou-easter, blew up in Victoria around 3. It increased to a maximum of 36 m.p.h. an hour or so later, but gusts around eaves and gables were more than 40 m.p.h.

About 6, the frontal movement, with which the storm was associated, passed Victoria, and the wind direction veered to west, decreasing to 13 m.p.h. by 6.30.

By 9, it had swung to a southerly direction and was no more than a steady breeze, but with a bit of a chill to indicate Old Man Winter is just around the corner.

The forecast issued from the Dominion Weather Office in Vancouver predicted an unsettled day with occasional sunny intervals and possible showers.

Prognostications for the wind said it would build up to 25 miles per hour from the west during the day.

No damage was reported to police, and there were no reports of trouble on the waterfront, though the night steamer from Vancouver was half an hour late in docking.

Body Of Boy Found In Woods

MADAWASKA, Ont. (CP)—The body of 10-year-old Ted Rose, missing since Sunday, was found in the bush near here today, a bullet wound in the head.

Some 400 persons, including 200 soldiers, had been searching for the lad.

The body was found partially under a log, it was reported.

There was no immediate statement from police as to whether they suspect foul play.

Bonus For Gold Producers Continued Through 1951

OTTAWA (BUP)—The government today announced plans to continue its cost-aid program of bonuses to gold producers through 1951, but cut the amount of aid.

Mines Minister J. J. McCann said the government would ask Parliament to continue the program through the calendar year 1951 and added the plan had been approved by the International Monetary Fund as "not inconsistent with the principles of the fund."

McCann said the bonus would be reduced from its present maximum rate of 16 per cent of refined gold, to 11.50. At the same time, he said, legislation would be amended to boost the cost level at which the bonus payments start from $18 to $22 an ounce.

The base year, on which production figures for bonus payments are computed, also will be changed in the new amendments to the Emergency Gold Mining Assistance Act, McCann said.

Board 'Retires' Windsor Police Chief, Deputy

Commission Gives Pair Pensions

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Chief of Police Claude Renaud and Deputy Chief W. H. Neale were "retired" today by the Windsor police commission at the end of its investigation of law enforcement here.

In a formal statement, the commission said the interests of the police force "will be best served by the retirement of these officers." The commission recommended the city board of control put them both on full pension at once.

Until a new police chief is chosen, Staff Inspector Edwin V. McNeill of the Ontario provincial police will be acting chief.

The statement, issued by commission chairman Judge Archibald Cochrane and signed "with the full agreement" of the other two members, Magistrate Roland A. Harris and Mayor Arthur J. Reaume, said the decision to retire the two top police officers was made after several weeks of "extensive investigation into the administration of the police force."

The investigation had been directed toward finding if the two senior officers have shown "alien and aggressive leadership" required in Windsor "where police tasks are particularly difficult."

The commission referred to Deputy Neale's association with an equipment company which supplied $2,500 worth of clothes and equipment to the police force annually.

The changes came on the heels of a report by two provincial police inspectors who said Windsor officials must have known about "widespread" vice and gambling which they found in Windsor.

Gas Price Cut Baffles Sellers

Possibility was seen today of the Provincial Cabinet making a slight change to its Tuesday decision to decrease the price of gasoline by three-quarters of a cent per gallon.

The three-quarters of a cent has thrown service station operators into a state of confusion because their gasoline pumps compute only in tenths.

"There are no pumps manufactured on the continent which compute in tenths," said an oil company executive, "so how we can work out the three-quarters of a cent difference in measuring gasoline for the motorist is something of a mystery."

TO SEE GOVERNMENT

It was understood oil companies were planning to interview government officials on the question with a view to having the three-quarters changed to say seven-tenths or eight-tenths.

Three-quarters is seven-and-one-half-tenths. "The cabinet's decision was 'understandable' said the oil man, because members hardly could be expected to know the detailed operations of service stations.

"But something has to be done," he added. The gas stations could not reduce the cost by seventh-tenths or eighth-tenths. Regulations prohibit sale of gasoline at higher or lower prices than those set through the Coal and Petroleum Board.

It is understood the cabinet received a recommendation from the board that the decrease be 1 cent a gallon, but changed it to three-quarters because this was the nearest equivalent to the rising dollar value on the exchange market.

Threshers See Training Plane Crash In Field

EDMONTON (CP)—Two R.C. A.F. officers were killed instantly Monday when their Harvard training plane spun into a farmer's field six miles south of Edmonton.

The dead: Flt. Lt. L. C. Coffey, 32, of Edmonton and F.O. Albert B. Dalman, 27, of Edmonton and Winnipeg.

The single-engine aircraft was on a training flight from Edmonton at the time of the crash Tuesday. Because it was a dual-control trainer, it is not known who was at the controls.

A threshing crew watched the aircraft approach as if for a landing; bank steeply and turn, then roll over and spin into the ground.

All witnesses said that just before the crash the engine roared as if the pilot was giving it full throttle. It is believed possible the plane lost flying speed in the steep bank.

As the aircraft struck the ground less than 250 yards from the threshing crew the wings were torn off and thrown high in the air.

The threshers ran over and found the victims wedged in the crumpled fuselage.

Sheepskins Up

DETROIT (AP)—It costs more to graduate now, too. Wayne University paid $1.95 last year for English sheepskin parchment diplomas. Tuesday it discovered the present price is $2.05.

Chinese Reds Said Massing In North Korea

Prisoner Tells Of New War Threat

From UP and AP Dispatches

An unconfirmed report attributed to a war prisoner said today that 20,000 Chinese Communist troops had entered North Korea and taken up defensive positions.

The South Korean Army reported that it had captured a Chinese Communist soldier in Korea and he told of the mass entry into Korea by his fellow troops.

The South Korean report was described as "verified" by the U.S. 1st Corps headquarters.

Meanwhile, five Allied columns thrust closer to Communist China's Manchurian border today in a drive to end the Korean war. Beaten North Korean troops fled before them in ox carts and afoot.

Nearest to the uneasy border, at latest reports, was the South Korean 6th Division. It drove northwest from Huelchon in the west-central area and expected to reach a point 35 miles from the boundary shortly.

ON BOTH SIDES

The Commonwealth 27th Brigade, made up of British and Australian forces, and three other South Korean divisions, was pushing northward on both sides and in the middle of the mountainous peninsula.

Intelligence officers at Gen. MacArthur's headquarters in Tokyo said reports that a South Korean force already has reached the Korean-Manchurian border "are in error."

There was no resistance, except for small-arms fire in a few spots. Nor was there any evidence of a big convoy moving southward to oppose the United Nations clean-up campaign.

The Far East air forces reported a cluster of miscellaneous vehicles was strafed by fighter planes Tuesday. Fifty-five vehicles were destroyed, 40 damaged.

That was at Mupyeong, 20 miles southwest of Kangye, near the Manchurian border about midway across the Korean peninsula. Kangye has been reported to be the mountain retreat of the refugee Red regime.

AGRICULTURE SOCIETY ACTS To Discuss Problem Of Fairground Lease

By DON INGHAM Times Staff Writer

DUNCAN—Cowichan Agricultural Society will meet here tonight to plan their next move regarding an Exchequer Court decision in Ottawa invalidating their lease on Indian Reserve land besides the city.

Results of the judgment, handed down Saturday, were received in Duncan Tuesday. Land affected is the site of the Agricultural Hall and fair grounds, a community and sports centre since its completion in 1914.

Action was taken on the fact that a 99-year lease granted in 1912 was not ratified by federal government order-in-council.

"We feel this decision is a gross miscarriage of justice,"

British Security Units Join Far-Flung Search

By ROBERT E. JACKSON

LONDON (UP)—Scotland Yard detectives raided the home of missing atom scientist Bruno Pontecorvo today and four British security agencies joined in an international search for him.

Pontecorvo, his wife and two sons disappeared in Helsinki, Finland, on or about Sept. 2. Finnish reports indicated they may have gone to the Soviet Union.

The Italian-born Pontecorvo until recently was attached to Britain's atomic experimental station at Harwell and had access to some of this country's top atom secrets.

Britain took little official public cognizance of Pontecorvo's disappearance until Tuesday night, when MI-5—Britain's military intelligence agency—put a report on the case on Prime Minister Clement R. Attlee's desk at No. 10 Downing Street.

Then Scotland Yard's special branch, which investigates the activities of aliens, went into action. It sent a squad to search Pontecorvo's two-story brick house at Abington, near the Harwell atom station.

Four raincoated officers entered the darkened house with a skeleton key shortly after midnight and searched it from cellar to roof behind lowered blinds. A half-hour later they emerged with a suitcase, a brown paper parcel and three months' back mail. They drove off back to London.

JOIN PROBE

It was learned that MI-6—the Foreign Office intelligence branch—and the Supply Ministry's security division also have joined the investigation.

It was understood Scotland Yard's special branch has ordered its agents abroad to find out everything possible about Pontecorvo's movements. He is a naturalized British citizen.

Pontecorvo and his family left England in August for a continental tour prior to taking up a chair of experiment physics at the University of Liverpool in January.

However, it was understood security agents believe he switched plans in Italy, put his car in a garage and flew to Sweden. From there the family planned to Finland.

Weather Forecast

Pontecorvo Shared Claims On A-Patent

WASHINGTON (AP)—Britain's missing atom scientist, Dr. Bruno Pontecorvo, could collect more than $500,000 from the United States government if all his claims for development of the atomic bomb were allowed, it was revealed today.

Pontecorvo has mysteriously disappeared. Reports from Rome—thus far unconfirmed—say he and his family have skipped to Russia.

A check here today showed that Pontecorvo is one of a group of scientists who say their patent on fissionable materials was taken over by the government.

FILED CLAIMS

They have filed claims for $10,000,000 in the U.S. Court of Claims and $900,000 in the Atomic Energy Commission.

The Court of Claims suit was filed Aug. 21. Nothing has happened there yet. A preliminary report by an Atomic Energy Commission board doubted the validity of the claims, but no final action was taken.

The scientists were together at the University of Rome back in the '30s. Seven of them shared in the work, but they weren't businessmen. They left that part of the work to G. M. Giannini, who had come to the United States. He set up the G. M. Giannini Company Inc. of Pasadena, Calif.

It was agreed they'd all share equally from any proceeds, one share for Giannini, the rest for the seven scientists.

DROPPED OUT

However, the Giannini firm said Monday, it is relinquishing its interest in the suit because "we do not care to be associated even remotely with anyone involved or reputed to be involved in any sort of international mystery."

Pontecorvo later disposed of half of his interest, leaving him with a one-sixteenth share. One-sixteenth would amount to $681,250 in a kitty of $10,900,000.

The Atomic Energy Act of 1946 is the key to the suits.

That year Congress decided that the government, not private industry, should be responsible for the development of atomic energy for military weapons. All patents were revoked in this field, but the law said just compensation would be paid.

Irish Sweep Brings
Canada $250,000B.C. Ticket Holders, Including
Two Victorians, Out Of Running

Nearly a quarter of a million dollars came to Canada today in Irish Sweepstakes winnings, but two Victoria ticket-holders were left out in the cold along with all the other B.C. hopefuls. Two Canadians each won $73,750 when Kelling came in front of the 109th running of the Cambridgeshire Stakes at Newmarket, England.

The good news was for Jean Burns, 31-year-old creamery clerk, who promptly quit her job at Manitowaning on Manitoulin Island; and Scottish-born George Hall, 66-year-old bachelor, now working as a shipper in a Toronto factory.

Other Canadian winners, who still get good sums are S. A. Longhurst, secretary-treasurer of a Petersburg, Ont., lumber company, who won $28,000 with a ticket on the second horse, Zina.

At least two other Ontario residents had tickets on the third-placer, Valdesco. One is Mrs. Effie Clay, a Toronto widow; the other Doreen Hodges, a 22-year-old Toronto stenographer who came to Canada a year ago. Each won $14,000.

The "unlucky" Victorians are two provincial government employees, joint holders of a ticket on Coalition, which finished out of the money among the 31 horses which ran.

The two, 60-year-old A. M. Davies, 658 Battery Street, and 22-year-old Roderick McLeod, 1138 Palmer Street, were not too sad about the result, however.

Because the horse ran, they will share nearly $530.

DIDNT COUNT ON IT

"I never counted on winning," Mr. Davies confided after he learned of the race's finish. "I guess I'm not made that way."

He cheerfully acknowledged his half of the $530 could be put to use, and agreed that he would continue to buy tickets in future sweeps.

Mr. McLeod reacted in a like manner. "No, I didn't expect to win," he said. "I think we did all right, though. It created some excitement around the office here."

McLeod works in the Lands Department of the Legislature Buildings, while Davies is in the forestry accounting.

Feed Yugoslavs

WASHINGTON (AP)—State Secretary Acheson said today $2,000,000 is being made available to Yugoslavia to help buy food needed immediately because of a crop failure.

Acheson said the government's Export-Import Bank had given the Yugoslavs permission to divert to food buying $2,000,000 of a $15,000,000 loan granted earlier for the purchase of machinery and industrial materials.

He said he had sanctioned City Clerk F. L. Kitto's plan to buy materials for a new house. "Kitto came and asked me if he could do it and I told him almost everyone on the staff does."

Mayor Jordon admitted that he and his business partner, W. Roy Biggs, had each sold 50 sacks of cement to the city. But the sale was without profit. It was made during the railway strike when the "city was desperate for cement."

RENTING BUILDINGS

He also said he and his partner were renting buildings in the city-owned Glenwood army camp in connection with their transfer business.

"I don't see why a man should be deprived of facilities just because he is a mayor or alderman or something like that."

The west coast city of 8,000 wound up 1949 with a $73,558 deficit and it was contracted, Mr. Kitto admitted, without any legal authority.

The mayor said it wasn't until late in 1949 when council became aware of over-expenditures.

Transportation Holds Up Queen's Statue Arrival

The statue of Queen Victoria, presently languishing in Dublin, has not been forgotten.

J. Edward Sears, the Vancouver lawyer who offered to donate the statue, wrote the city today that transportation difficulties were holding up delivery.

Attempts are being made to have the statue put aboard a steamer at an Irish port and brought to Canada from whence it will be trucked to the place of erection.

Mr. Sears added that he did not see the necessity of bringing out the basework below the cupids supporting the statue of the Queen herself. A friend, George McLaughlin, who is leaving Vancouver Nov. 2 for Dublin, will make a call with regard to the statue.

PICKLES AWARDED
DAMAGES OF $5,000Prolonged, Costly Court Action Ends
In Favor Of Saanich Sheepraiser

The Sydney Pickles $10,000 damage suit against Capt. James Barr and other 1947 executive members of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals came to an abrupt end today with both parties agreeing to a settlement in favor of the Saanich farmer.

Terms of the agreement are that judgment be entered for Pickles for the sum of $5,000, including all costs of current court proceedings. The S.P.C.A. has undertaken to pay the judgment against its former executive officers.

At the same time the damage action for defamation which certain of the defendants had brought against Pickles is dismissed without costs.

The announcement that both parties had agreed to a settlement was made by H. W. Davey, K.C., in Supreme Court today.

Lloyd G. McKenzie, counsel for the S.P.C.A., told the court his party was satisfied with the judgment.

Commenting on the settlement, Mr. Justice A. M. Manson said: "I am very glad good sense has prevailed."

His Lordship said the case was not worth the expenses incurred by both parties.

Mr. McKenzie and Mr. Davey disclosed at the close of the trial that both parties met Tuesday night and reached an agreement before the case resumed.

Pickles, president of Ward Six and operator of a Saanich farm, who sued the S.P.C.A. for alleged malicious prosecution, said after the trial the amount of judgment did not cover the amount of expense to which he was put. "But I'm glad and relieved that this matter is now settled in the interest of an amicable settlement in this long outstanding litigation."

The settlement brought to an end a damage action which began in 1947. Pickles began his suit after a charge accusing him of neglecting four sheep suffering from worms was dismissed in Saanich police court.

He lost his case in Supreme Court and his appeal before the Court of Appeal. He subsequently appealed to the Supreme Court of Canada which quashed the Supreme Court's decision and ordered a new trial which opened here Monday.

Lawyers refused to disclose the costs of the litigation. It is estimated, however, that cost for both parties ran over $15,000.

Acheson Raps Russ
Plan On Germany

WASHINGTON (AP)—State Secretary Acheson turned down today a Russian bloc proposal for a new big power effort to establish a single German government.

The proposal was made Saturday following a two-day conference at Prague of Russian Deputy Premier V. M. Molotov, Acheson in a statement blamed Germany's plight on Russia's postwar actions. The proposals made at Prague, he said, "should be directed to the government of the Soviet Union."

U.N. Troops To Halt
Short Of Red Border

Machine Won't Calculate It

Even usually cheerful and obliging service station attendant Howard Stanley becomes glum as he ponders effect of B.C. cabinet's decision to lower gasoline price three-quarters of a cent on his gasoline pump, which works only on decimal system.

Second Price Change To Ease Gasoline Headache

A slight change in the three-quarters of a cent cut in the price of a gallon of gasoline announced by the provincial cabinet Tuesday will be asked of the Coal and Petroleum Board, it was announced today by Attorney-General Wismer.

The board will be asked to approve either a cut of seven-tenths or eight-tenths of a cent instead of the three-quarters of a cent.

The change will eliminate the confusion reigning among service station operators whose electric gasoline pumps compute in tenths.

The provincial cabinet and the control board apparently blundered in the Tuesday announcement.

It is understood the board recommended a 1 cent cut and the cabinet changed it to three-quarters of a cent as the nearest equivalent to the rate of exchange on the Canadian dollar.

Carrothers is understood to have given his approval to the cabinet when he was contacted hurriedly before the announcement was made public.

Neither the cabinet nor Dr. Carrothers thought about the complications the three-quarters (or seven and a half tenths) decrease would bring to the gas-servers.

Acting Premier Herbert Anscomb who made the three-quarters of a cent announcement left for Vancouver Tuesday night, and Dr. Carrothers was en route to the mainland this morning.

A.G. GETS COMPLAINTS

Attorney-General Wismer received the brunt of complaints as a result.

He immediately checked on the reports of confusion and announced the change would be sought. It requires the assent of the Coal and Petroleum Board chairman.

Meanwhile most service stations continued selling at the old prices of 40 cents a gallon for premium and 38 for ordinary in Victoria. Some were reported to be cutting the price by seven-tenths of a cent. They were breaking the law.

Coal and Petroleum Control Act state gasoline must be sold at the set price—not higher or lower.

This means they were selling at one half a tenth of a cent above what they should.

The cut in the gasoline price is a result of the freeing of the Canadian dollar four weeks ago.

Pearson Tells Cabinet

Mr. Pearson, who attended the council session, will return to New York Thursday.

Victoria Escapes Lightly As Gale
Hits Island And Mainland Coast

With many a muttered undertone, Victorians crawled sleepily from between the warm sheets in the wee small hours this morning to close windows as the season's first storm hit the coast.

That was the major inconvenience caused in this area, it appeared today, as the storm, which has been lashing the north coast for two days, passed into the interior.

Flapping blinds, banging doors and the howl of gusts of about 40 miles per hour were bothersome, but no damage was reported in the Victoria area.

The lower mainland and up-island points were hit hardest. Torrential rains spearheaded the southeast gale with winds in gusts up to 60 miles an hour in Vancouver.

U.S., British To Avoid Clashes On Boundary

TOKYO (AP)—Informed sources today (Thursday) said United States and British troops in Korea will stop at least 20 miles short of the Manchurian border.

They said the purpose was to minimize the dangers of a border clash. Korea borders on Russian Siberia as well as on Communist China's Manchuria.

South Korean forces will go on to the border in pursuit of Korean Communist remnants, these sources said.

U.S. and British forces also will be used to root out Red units that might remain sufficiently intact to form a new army, the informants reported.

Most military circles here believe that the neighboring Communists will do nothing more to help the shattered North Korean army as long as Allied forces remain in Korea.

South Korean troops thrust within 32 miles of the Manchurian border tonight in the drive to end the war.

North Koreans fled in oxcarts and afoot before five northward driving Allied divisions.

The South Korean 6th Division was reported closest to the border. It was four miles west of Hoemokdong and about 20 miles northwest of Huichon in north central Korea.

The 6th veered northwest at Huichon, taking the shortest road route to the border-marking Yalu River.

U.S. PLANE HIT
The U.S. Air Force said today an American F-51 fighter plane was hit Tuesday by anti-aircraft fire from the Chinese side of the Korean-Chinese border.

A spokesman said the pilot flew the plane out to sea but had to put down there. He was picked up by United Nations naval craft.

He said the American plane was three miles south of the border when fired on from the Chinese side.

This was the second report of American planes subjected to anti-aircraft fire from across the Chinese border.

Dispatches from Korea Tuesday said two U.S. marine planes were fired on Monday. Neither was hit.

Meanwhile Radio Peiping broadcast today that Chinese Reds are moving on Tibet, mid-Asian country seldom seen by white men.

The Communist radio said the purpose of the Chinese Communist advance is "to free 3,000,000 Tibetans from imperial oppression."

It did not mention the size of the Chinese force, its destination or whereabouts.

Scotland Yard
Raids Home Of Missing Scientist

By ROBERT E. JACKSON

LONDON (UP)—Scotland Yard detectives raided the home of missing atom scientist Bruno Portecorvo today and four British security agencies joined in an international search for him.

Portecorvo, his wife and two sons disappeared in Helsinki, Finland, on or about Sept. 2. Finnish reports indicated they may have gone to the Soviet Union.

The Italian-born Portecorvo until recently was attached to Britain's atomic experimental station at Harwell and had access to some of this country's top atom secrets.

Britain took little official public cognizance of Portecorvo's disappearance until Tuesday night, when MI-5—Britain's military intelligence agency—put a report on the case on Prime Minister Clement R. Attlee's desk at No. 10 Downing Street.

Then Scotland Yard's special branch, which investigates the activities of aliens, went into action. It sent a squad to search Portecorvo's two-story brick house at Abington, near the Harwell atom station.

Four raincoated officers entered the darkened house with a skeleton key shortly after midnight and searched it from cellar to roof behind lowered blinds.

WIND VEERED

About 6, the frontal movement, with which the storm was associated, passed Victoria, and the wind direction veered to west, decreasing to 18 m.p.h. by 6.30.

By 9, it had swung to a southerly direction and was no more than a steady breeze, but with a bit of a chill to indicate Old Man Winter is just around the corner.

No damage was reported to police, and there were no reports of trouble on the waterfront, though the night steamer from Vancouver was half an hour late in docking.

ONE WOMAN'S DAY

By NANCY HODGES

'AS OTHERS SEE US'

OUCH! I HAVE just been given an awful punch in the solar plexus of my self-esteem by a wrathful reader in retaliation for the blow I apparently—and quite inadvertently—administered to one of her tenderest susceptibilities. Now, when you write a daily column—and have written nearly 2,000 of them, as I have in the last seven years—you are bound to tread on somebody's corns at some time or another.

And because I have a sneaking sympathy with what the immortal Burns once wrote to the effect: "O wad some power the giftie gie us, to see ourselves as others see us," I welcome the criticisms along with the appreciations. But I must say it took my breath away a bit to read one woman's opinion of the writer of One Woman's Day—as expressed in a letter to the editor.

SNEERING SLURS

ACCORDING TO HER I am the possessor of a "petty, sarcastic and ill-natured mind." That may be. But when she went on to say that "my work and enjoyment seems to consist of casting sneering words of opprobrium on England, its royal family and people," I was a bit staggered—until it tickled my funny-bone.

My allusions to Queen Victoria's statue and a town's dispute over Queen Boadicea's last resting place are evidently looked upon as aspersions on the royal family! From what I know of the royal family, I feel pretty sure that they themselves have enjoyed many a chuckle over controversies concerning long-dead—but none the less revered—royalties.

OPPROBRIUM?

AS TO MY alleged "words of opprobrium upon England and its people," I can only trace that to my columns on the quaint doings that I see amusingly recorded in the English papers themselves. Being an Englishwoman by birth and upbringing, I still retain that most English of characteristics—the ability to laugh at ourselves—but I challenge any reader to show me where I have brought opprobrium on the people over there.

I happen to have people of my own in London, where they went through the bombing and blitzing of two world wars, and all the tragic aftermath. So no one knows better than I what they stand for—and all that has gone into the making of "this happy breed."

MUCK-RAKING AND KIPPERS

THE CORRESPONDENT'S allusion to my "muck-raking" of the English and her allegations of my "kippers" brings to my mind an epistle I received a few years ago, at a time when I was making an appeal for parcels for Britain.

One letter I received at the time—also hitting below the belt from the shelter of anonymity in the name of fair play—found fault with my championship of the British people, and added: "England is a land of kippers . . . kippers stink and so do you—you'd better get back there and the quicker the better for Canada." So you see, I apparently belong to No Man's Land!

PUNCH WOULD LAUGH

IN THE LIGHT of what "Fair Play" would do to poor little insignificant me, judging by her letter to the editor, I am wondering what she would have done to Sir William S. Gilbert or to "Punch," whose lampoonings of the English and of cherished British institutions have for a century been so beloved of Britons and chortled at the world over?

One of the reasons why Shakespeare's King Richard the Third dubbed the British "this happy breed" was because of their innate gift of humor, the ability to laugh at themselves, that priceless heritage which has helped them through many a dark hour and which, pray God, they may never lose.

Best of all, British symbolizes the democratic ideal on which we pattern our Canadian life. And under that system, one of the greatest privileges we enjoy is the right of freedom of speech, freedom to think what we like. And, after all, it would be a deadly dull world if we all saw eye to eye—even "Fair Play" and I, wouldn't it?

NEW 'HAND' PLANNED

Many Rally To Aid Blind Boatbuilder

Response to an appeal for citizens to help Victoria's blind boatbuilder has been generous as service clubs and individuals rally to raise funds to give Arthur Barnes a grip-type hand to replace his present hook.

An authority on artificial limbs who wishes to remain anonymous has promised to give all the assistance he can.

Mr. Barnes, who runs a confectionery with his mother at 3586 Quadra Street, lost his right hand and his sight in a dynamite explosion when a boy.

Now 32, he builds boats as a hobby, and to date has completed a dinghy and an eight-foot yacht tender. He is now working on a 13-foot sailboat.

But building boats requires skillful hands, and Mr. Barnes' hook causes difficulties. A short time ago, he casually mentioned to a friend how much help a grip-type hand would be.

The Victoria Inboard-Outboard Association took up the idea, and is sponsoring the drive to raise several hundred dollars for the artificial hand.

It is hoped to have it for the handicapped man by Christmas. Contributions are being received by Robert Watson, 2652 Asquith Street, commodore of the association. Individual receipts will be sent all donors.

Recall Bridge Disaster Here

One of the worst disasters in Canadian history, the collapse of the Point Ellice Bridge in 1896 with a death toll of 55 holiday-makers will be recalled in Victoria today, with news that the city proposes to build a new structure.

The provincial government had the San Francisco Bridge Company erect the span in 1885. It was turned over to the city in 1891.

Weaknesses began to show up in 1893 when timbers gave way one May 24, under weight of a heavily loaded B.C. Electric streetcar. The car got across safely.

However, on May 26, 1896 the bridge collapsed under weight of a streetcar carrying 124 holiday-makers on their way out to a sham battle at Macaulay Point. The death toll was 55.

Strike Vote For Hospital Workers

The boiler-room staff of St. Joseph's Hospital will ballot Thursday in a government-supervised strike vote.

The Victoria local of the International Union of Operating Engineers applied to the B.C. Labor Relations Board for such a vote last week. Four engineers, one fireman and one maintenance man are concerned.

The union is seeking a wage increase of 12½ cents an hour for the hospital employees.

FLYING SAUCER SOLVED?

Suspicious Man, Dog Visited From Above

By HUMPHRY DAVY

The answer to the flying saucer may be in a creamy white box which dropped out of the sky into my backyard.

I'm not saying it is. I leave that up to you.

The object was released at Tatooish Island. That is somewhere of the coast of Washington. If you try hard enough you will find the place on the map—a small dot off Cape Flattery about 53½ miles from my backyard to be exact.

From there on the course of its travels is up to the imagination. Those who may have seen the white object flashing in the sun must surely have thought it was one of those mysterious discs. You know those flying objects which have been the source of one of the best "whodunit" mysteries in the past decade.

The object for days rested suspended in mid-air or moved swiftly in the sky with the air currents. Finally at a height of several miles it selected my backyard as a landing ground. It made a perfect landing.

Now, since the war, I'm a little suspicious of anything that drops out of the sky. I've a friend who picked up a fountain pen some where in England thinking it was a gift from heaven. Today he is writing with three fingers. So I first circled the object. Our dog was every bit as suspicious. He joined me in the circling movement.

We pounced on the object, which turned out to be a box. To it was attached a square of red silk. I'm sorry the silk didn't have the hammer and sickle emblem as it would have added much more spice to the story.

From under a flap I pulled out a tag. To be frank, I was disappointed. It read: "Notice to finders." (I guess that's me.) "This instrument, Radiosonde, belongs to the United States government. The balloon sent up by a U.S. weather bureau station carried it to a height of about 12 miles.

The balloon burst and the instrument came down slowly on the parachute (silk). While in the air, the instrument acted as a radio broadcaster of the temperature, pressure and moisture of the air through which it passed.

"Please return. No stamps are needed. Thank you."

Pearkes Questions Wisdom Of New Special Force

Maj. Gen. George R. Pearkes, V.C., M.P. for Nanaimo, said Tuesday night credit was due the Canadian government for its immediate support of the United Nations forces in Korea but "one questions the wisdom of creating a separate, regular army."

Duplication in forming a special brigade for Korea over and above the regular army was costly, he said.

The general was addressing a general meeting of the Saanich Progressive Conservation Association.

Speaking in support of the U.N., which celebrated its fifth anniversary Tuesday, General Pearkes said its work was slow but it was making progress in the right direction.

The ways of peace were not nearly as spectacular as the ways of war, but progress was being made by the U.N.

ARRIVING HERE FRIDAY—National Revenue Minister J. J. McCann will be guest at a reception at Liberal Headquarters in the evening. Mr. McCann will return to the mainland on his way east on Saturday.

East German Purge Of Red Weaklings

To Strike At Old Communists Who Moved West Instead Of To Russia

BERLIN (AP)—Moscow-trained leaders of East Germany's ruling Communist Party today proclaimed a sweeping purge of alleged Red weaklings.

The officially-described "new clean-up" will strike at old Communists who emigrated to the west instead of to Russia in the Nazi era, and their sympathizers. But Fritz Lange, chairman of the feared State Control Commission—the Politburo's watchdog in East German politics and industry—said the purge would extend to many who did not have direct relations with the American spy, Noel H. Field.

He referred to a United States citizen who mysteriously vanished in Prague last year and later was accused by Soviet-bloc regimes of having directed a network of pro-American spies and saboteurs in Communist ranks. Field's wife, his brother and his adopted daughter since have vanished behind the Iron Curtain. Some Communist sources have hinted one or more may be produced at a spectacular treason trial in East Germany in the future.

Aldermen Approve Broadcast Plan

A municipal radio panel as suggested by Radio Station CKDA won approval of City Council at its meeting Tuesday. A suggestion that city representatives sit in on a discussion program on municipal matters with representatives from adjoining municipalities was made by the station.

Ald. Waldo Skillings felt such a move would aid the "metropolitan idea" as well as give citizens some background on civic affairs.

PEACE BRINGS BEANS BACK

Peace, prosperity, and canned baked beans have taken their rightful place in the Canadian home following the war, according to statistics.

In an effort to dispose Boston as the bean capital of the world, Canadians opened 77,000,000 cans of beans in 1947, a record year, and have maintained their hot pace to the present.

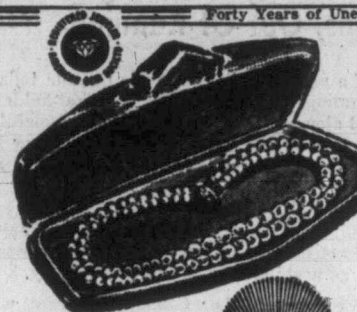

Government tinplate regulations during the war limited production, but the lid on beans has been off ever since.

Nanaimo Liberals Meet At Duncan

Nanaimo Federal Liberal Association is holding its annual general meeting at Duncan today with about 100 delegates on hand from the Saanich, Esquimalt, Cowichan-Newcastle and Nanaimo—the island ridings.

The meeting, at the United Church Hall, is being addressed by Harry Perry, Prince George, president of the B.C. Liberal Association, and Arthur Lang, M.P. for Vancouver South.

The morning was taken up with committee meetings and open discussion was planned throughout the afternoon on a variety of resolutions.

Pontecorvo Shares Claim On U.S. For A-Patent

WASHINGTON (AP)—Britain's missing atomic scientist, Dr. Bruno Pontecorvo, could collect more than $500,000 from the United States government if all his claims for development of the atomic bomb were allowed, it was revealed today.

Pontecorvo has mysteriously disappeared. Reports from Rome—thus far unconfirmed—say he and his family have skipped to Russia.

A check here today showed that Pontecorvo is one of a group of scientists who say their patent on fissionable materials was taken over by the government.

FILED CLAIMS

They have filed claims for $10,000,000 in the U.S. Court of Claims and $900,000 in the Atomic Energy Commission.

The Court of Claims suit was filed Aug. 21. Nothing has happened there yet. A preliminary report by an Atomic Energy Commission board doubted the validity of the claims, but no final action was taken.

The scientists were together at the University of Rome back in the '30s. Seven of them shared in the work, but they weren't businessmen. They left that part of the work to G. M. Giannini, who had come to the United States. He set up the G. M. Giannini Company Inc. of Pasadena, Calif.

It was agreed they'd all share equally from any proceeds, one share for Giannini, the rest for the seven scientists.

DROPPED OUT

However, the Giannini firm said Monday, it is relinquishing its interest in the suit because "we do not care to be associated even remotely with anyone involved or reputed to be involved in any sort of international mystery."

Pontecorvo later disposed of half of his interest, leaving him with a one-sixteenth share. One-sixteenth would amount to $681,250 in a kitty of $10,900,000.

The Atomic Energy Act of 1946 is the key to the suits.

That year Congress decided that the government, not private industry, should be responsible for the development of atomic energy for military weapons. All patents were revoked in this field, but the law said just compensation would be paid.

AGRICULTURE SOCIETY ACTS

To Discuss Problem Of Fairground Lease

By DON INGHAM
Times Staff Writer

DUNCAN—Covachan Agricultural Society will meet here tonight to plan their next move regarding an Exchequer Court decision in Ottawa invalidating their lease on Indian Reserve land besides the city.

Results of the judgment, handed down Saturday, were received in Duncan Tuesday. Land affected is the site of the Agricultural Hall and fair grounds, a community and sports centre since its completion in 1914.

Action was taken on the fact that a 99-year lease granted in 1912 was not ratified by federal government order-in-council.

"We feel this decision is a gross miscarriage of justice," Hamish Mutter, president of the society, said in Duncan Tuesday.

Mr. Mutter traced the history of the society from its inception in 1867, making it the oldest in the province, to the present day. In that time, he said, the society had never asked the public for money, and during two wars had turned the property over to the Canadian Army. From 1930 on it has been the headquarters of Reserve Army units.

Original agreement on the present site was made in 1888, he said, but two renewals of the lease were made without being ratified.

"If the 1912 lease had been ratified this would not have happened," he said. "We feel we have an undisputed right to the property, in that an agreement should be as good now as when it was made."

Board 'Retires' Windsor Police Chief, Deputy

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Chief of Police Claude Renaud and Deputy Chief W. H. Neale were "retired" today by the Windsor police commission at the end of its investigation of law enforcement here.

In a formal statement, the commission said the interests of the police force "will be best served by the retirement of these officers." The commission recommended the city board of control put them both on full pension at once.

Until a new police chief is chosen, Staff Inspector Edwin V. McNeill of the Ontario provincial police will be acting chief.

The statement, issued by commission chairman Judge Archibald Cochrane and signed "with the full agreement" of the other two members, Magistrate Roland A. Harris and Mayor Arthur J. Renaud, said the decision to retire the two top police officers was made after several weeks of "extensive investigation into the administration of the police force."

The investigation had been directed toward finding if the two senior officers have shown "alert and aggressive leadership" required in Windsor "where policing tasks are particularly difficult."

The commission referred to Deputy Neale's association with an equipment company which supplied $2,500 worth of clothes and equipment to the police force annually.

The changes came on the heels of a report by two provincial police inspectors who said Windsor officials must have known about "widespread" vice and gambling which they found in Windsor.

Lost Work Days Show Increase

OTTAWA (CP)—Canadian workers lost 1,301,688 man-days through work stoppages caused by industrial disputes in the first nine months of this year, the labor department reported Tuesday.

The loss compared with 833,946 days in the same period of 1949. For the 1950 period, there were 110 strikes and lockouts involving 162,247 workers. In the first nine months of 1949 there were 105 stoppages involving 38,520 workers.

The increase this year was caused by the August general railway strike, in which 124,000 workers staged a nine-day walk-out.

Mines Minister J. J. McCann said the government would ask Parliament to continue the program through the calendar year 1951 and added the plan had been approved by the International Monetary Fund as "not inconsistent with the principles of the fund."

McCann said the bonus would be reduced from its present maximum rate of $16 per ounce of refined gold, to $11.50. At the same time, he said, legislation would be amended to boost the cost level at which the bonus payments start from $18 to $22 an ounce.

The base year, on which production figures for bonus payments are computed, also will be changed in the new amendments to the Emergency Gold Mining Assistance Act, McCann said.

The present act, due to expire Dec. 31, provided gold producers with government subsidies amounting to half of all production costs above $18 an ounce up to a maximum of $16 an ounce. The bonus was paid on production over two-thirds of base year production.

The base year for established mines will be changed from 1947 to 1949.

Canadian gold producers received $38.50 per ounce for newly-minted gold during the period when the Canadian dollar was pegged at 90 cents, U.S. Last month, when the dollar was freed of exchange rates and allowed to find its own level, a $3.50 per ounce rate reduction in the bonus payments made in 1949 was restored.

Surplus Butter Period May End In Spring

OTTAWA (CP)—A general tightening up in production and increase in consumption may spell the end of surplus butter days for Canada next spring.

A government agriculture official discloses that the government, under its support plan, has purchased only about 36,000,000 pounds of butter this year, compared with about 48,500,000 last year.

The surplus butter-producing period in Canada is between May and September. Last spring, when Canada went into new butter production, the government held about 18,000,000 pounds, which it sold partly through foreign sales and partly through below-market prices in Canada.

Threshers See Training Plane Crash In Field

EDMONTON (CP)—Two R.C. A.F. officers were killed instantly Monday when their Harvard training plane spun into a farmer's field six miles south of Edmonton.

The dead: Flt. Lt. L. C. Coffey, 32, of Edmonton and F.O. Albert B. Dalman, 27, of Edmonton and Winnipeg.

The single-engine aircraft was on a training flight from Edmonton at the time of the crash Tuesday. Because it was a dual-control trainer, it is not known who was at the controls.

A threshing crew watched the aircraft approach as if for a landing, bank steeply and turn, then roll over and spin into the ground.

All witnesses said that just before the crash the engine roared as if the pilot was giving it full throttle. It is believed possible the plane lost flying speed in the steep bank.

As the aircraft struck the ground less than 250 yards from the threshing crew the wings were torn off and thrown high in the air.

The threshers ran over and found the victims wedged in the crumpled fuselage.

Choose Jury In Beating Trial

SAN FRANCISCO (BUP)—The trial of Douglas Carapata, 46, for the near-fatal hammer beating of his Vancouver niece entered its third day today with the likelihood that a jury would be chosen by noon.

Carapata is accused of assaulting Mary McIntyre, 25, with intent to commit murder on June 4. Miss McIntyre said her uncle quarrelled with her over attentions paid her by Jack Kline, a circus performer.

Ten women and two men were provisionally in the box when Monday's session was adjourned. The prosecution and defence each had used up four of their 10 peremptory challenges. In addition to the 12 alternates had to be chosen before testimony could begin.

Assistant District Attorney Walter H. Giubbin said the first prosecution witnesses probably would be Dr. Edmund J. Morrissey, physician who treated the Vancouver girl after the beating, and Kline.

Ontario Boy, 10, Is Found Shot To Death; Victim's Chum Held

The body of 10-year-old Ted Rose, a bullet wound in the head, was found today in bush near this village and another boy was taken into custody.

Inspector W. H. Lougheed of the Ontario Provincial Police said the other boy was being held for questioning.

The wound in the Rose boy's head was made by a .22-calibre rifle slug, police said. They seized a rifle.

Inspector Lougheed said it was possible the victim was shot accidentally.

Some 400 persons, including 200 soldiers, had been searching for the lad.

The body was found partially under a log. It was reported.

There was no immediate statement from police as to whether they suspect foul play.

The boy was roaming the Algonquin Park bush Sunday with a friend, 13-year-old Alex Yankovitch.

Yankovitch said that when he decided to return home, young Rose preferred to remain near the Madawaska River rapids, where the two had been throwing stones into the water.

Ted Rose was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Rose. The father is a truck driver. The boy's mother is ill.

Fair And Practical...

TWICE WITHIN A WEEK THE President of the United States has spoken openly and frankly in public, outlining the hope of his country for world peace and the course it intends to pursue until peace is achieved. The diplomatic language of the 20th century leaves little room for doubt as to meanings. In his San Francisco broadcast, and again yesterday at Lake Success, Mr. Truman spoke as clearly and simply as one would to a neighbor. High-sounding verbiage was absent. The possibility of misunderstanding was reduced to a minimum. Consequently there can be little reason for the Soviet Union to claim at any time in the near future that the United States has cloaked its true beliefs and plans.

It was fitting that the fifth anniversary of the United Nations should have been marked by the American leader's address. That such a declaration should have been necessary at this time was ample evidence that the high hopes of those who attended that first meeting at San Francisco half a decade ago have not been realized. The lines of ideological dispersion are drawn in a manner whose severity could only have been guessed at by the U.N. pioneers. The world is more wary, more weary, and perhaps more wise.

In that wisdom lies our hope. Rosy dreams, pious expectations, good intentions, wishful thinking—these have been shown to be fruitless. We know now better than at any time in the world's history that international peace is something that can only come through effort; it is not a golden reward bestowed on the righteous. Mr. Truman has given warning that if being strong enough to resist oppression is the answer, then that is the state his country will maintain. But he adds that if general disarmament can be made a matter of global agreement, then his country will co-operate to the full. That is a fair and practical approach to the problem. It remains to be seen whether it will evoke as fair and as practical a reply.

Always On The Ground

SOME OF US WHO WERE PERMITTED to know Rt. Hon. William Lyon Mackenzie King, O.M., intimately may be forgiven if we take a skeptical view of an Ottawa Citizen article based on the comments of a London (Eng.) weekly, Psychic News, and noted in the current issue of Time magazine.

None will find any complaint with the argument that Canada's great wartime leader derived much of his inspiration for conversion into action for the good of his country from the "quiet and reflection" to which he retreated himself when he felt he could shake off the shackles of public responsibility for an hour or so. But it is hard for us to believe that he waved his small hands, exercised his agile mind, sent his imagination into overtime as a slave of the occult.

True, Mr. King adored his mother, and when he talked about her one saw in his eyes that great quality of admiration so seldom manifested in these materialistic days. At the same time, any new tribute to the late Prime Minister of this Dominion would carry tarnish were it to emphasize the idea that his Presbyterian upbringing and belief had cast him into the realm of belief-tapping and the weird happenings in the darkness where only the ouija board holds sway.

Mr. King was a very practical man. He was a profound student. The role in which he was cast demanded of him all the essential qualities of statesmanship, the faculty of reaching decisions of vast importance—not by the intuition of the Hitlerian pattern—but by the exercise of that astute measure of compromise inherent in his concept of Liberalism. Of course he made mistakes; but his errors of judgment, and there were not many of them, would put the Psychic News in an editorial quandary if it tried to balance them with what he achieved in the realistic, political arena, nationally and internationally.

What the Duchess of Hamilton told the Psychic News need not be taken too seriously. She meant well, obviously, when she said that Mr. King "fully appreciated the spiritual direction of the universe and was always seeking guidance for himself and his work." In the spring of 1941 it was our privilege to sit on a bench by the side of Harrison Lake after the shadows had fallen, when a dozen or so political big-wigs in all their glad rags were waiting to touch the "hem of his garment," when the only guardian of our privacy was the present Deputy Postmaster-General of Canada.

Most of our thirty-minute chat was consumed by a discussion of the speech the Prime Minister had delivered in Calgary a day or so before. Mr. King then, and on the numerous occasions we talked to him in the East Block and elsewhere, sported no wings, was very much down to the earth, the same earth to which the inexorable twist of fate has consigned him. What has been said of him was true: He was a good man. Leave the rest.

The Pictures Provide The Record

MANY PEOPLE MAY SHARE THE opinion of members of the Victoria Natural History Society, that there is nothing heroic in hunters shooting deer and birds. That estimable organization's resolution protesting publication of photographs of hunters and their quarry, on the implied grounds that such pictures tend to make heroes of the marksmen, is, however, subject to question.

To those who admire hunters, such photographs may be taken as records of achievement. To those who agree with the society in its opposition to destruction of wildlife, the reverse is true. They see the reproductions as further evidence of a practice which they consider reprehensible.

Ignoring the issue entirely, by giving the matter no publicity at all, would not eliminate hunting. It might, on the other hand, leave those who feel strongly on the question, uninformed on conditions which do exist.

Goal Of Real Education Seen As Achievement Of 'Good Life'

By FRANK S. MORLEY

I TAKE no exception to the response of the citizens of the United States to a "Roper's Survey" in which they classify teachers as the most important people in the community. The development of a dynamic democracy depends on education. The future of a young person is conditioned by his education.

Nevertheless we do expect too much from education, unless you mean by education the total social process, which is not what most people mean. We have, therefore, often quoted H. G. Wells' remark that education was a race between annihilation and education without realizing that we could have both. Indeed education could make annihilation not only possible but inevitable.

CIVIC CONTRIBUTION

The recognition that we have expected too much from formal education pierces through the background of a study by Life Magazine of education in the United States. This is one of the finest civic contributions made by any journal in many a day.

Because most of our post-graduate studies in education have been undertaken at universities south of the border, the superb analysis of their educational conditions should be of vast interest. Some of the criticisms are devastating. The issue should be read by every man, woman and child in Canada. It should be studied by parent-teacher organizations.

Few parents whom I know are satisfied with the education of their children. Parents complain that the fundamental disciplines are neglected. Their children cannot read or write. They do not develop a liking for or understanding of good literature. They have little power of concentration.

They think everything should come easy to them—that they can eat without working and achieve without striving. An amorphous stew called "social studies" has replaced the discipline of history. Since most Canadians do not know what "Magna Carta" means, how can they understand democracy?

These parents should recognize, however, that education is their responsibility. Education is really decided in the home. If children are going to be taught to read, there must be good reading in the home. If they are to be taught to speak, there must be good conversation in the home. It is utterly impossible for teachers to lift young people from a morass of screen muck and radio thrillers and from the fog of comics and cheap reading trash into spiritual and literary competency.

COMMUNITY FAULT

The most profound deficiency in modern education is its lack of faith, but this is a fault of the community reflected in the schools.

The education situation nevertheless looks much more hopeful. Moreover—and most important of all—it is being recognized that education should aim at the creation, not of a good mechanic or good doctor, but of a good man. The goal of education is not technical proficiency, but the good life.

Loose Ends

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

SITTING atop Parliament Hill on this sparkling autumn day and looking out over the scarlet Gatineau hills one would like to send a lively dispatch to the folks at home. Unfortunately there is no cheerful news in Ottawa. The town is glum and a little bewildered by a brand new experience in its history. Briefly, the government of Canada is trying to learn how to fight a war without firing a gun.

Hutchison

Total war is a terrible business but it has a terrible simplicity.

IN TWO wars Canada has learned how to manage that process. No one has learned how to manage the process now under way, the rearmament of a nation technically at peace. All the sanctions of wartime are lacking—the public willingness to sacrifice and obey, the high taxes, the concentration of absolute power in Ottawa, the fear of disaster which makes everyone work, produce and save.

THE real question before the government today is whether the Canadian people have the intelligence to do voluntarily what they would do in wartime by compulsion. That question is not answered yet.

The government, in the typical Canadian fashion, creeps up on the problems of mobilization from the outskirts, a wary step at a time. Only the first steps have been taken and so far the public has kept up with the government. Up to now it has been easy. The hard steps lie ahead. The government realizes this but hesitates to say it, not knowing how hard the steps will be or whether the public mind is yet ready to hear the bad news.

BEFORE long the news will leak out. It will come first, in a minor fashion, with pretty drastic curbs on installment buying which will be felt by every reader of this column who plans to buy an automobile, a refrigerator or any similar gadget. Next will come sharp increases in taxes during 1951. The income tax, make no mistake about it, is going up simply because the present tax will not pay for the cost of rearmament; which means, in plain terms, that the state must take a larger share of the public's money to prevent the public buying the materials needed for guns.

HOW much taxes will go up must depend on the cost of the rearmament program and the ordinary running costs of government. No one knows what rearmament will cost. For the moment the defence program is calculated at about a billion a year, which is twice our total prewar budget and represents 1/17 of all the wealth we are producing as a people. If the cold war goes on the billion-dollar figure will certainly be exceeded before the end of next year unless Canada is to do less than its allies. A military budget of a billion and a half, a year or so hence, would not be surprising.

AS FOR the government's running costs, every attempt so far to reduce them has failed and probably will continue to fail. The government will be lucky, it thinks, to hold the bill to its present level, for while the public is clamoring for economy it is demanding new expenditures of every sort—and every dollar the government spends represents a dollar's worth of goods that the state must take away from the ordinary consumer.

ALL kinds of capital expenditure, however, are being slaughtered outright or quietly smothered without public announcement. The government will go slow on every possible building project to save manpower, materials and machinery needed for defence or for the ordinary consumer. The Trans-Canada Highway, for example, will not go ahead on schedule. It seems likely, though no decision apparently has been made, that the plan to provide general old-age pensions will be postponed for a year or two anyway.

IN SHORT, by all manner of devious means, through financial operations too complex for the public to understand, and under all the disguises of democratic politics, the state in Canada is moving in on the Canadian household to force down its standard of living simply because the productive apparatus of the country cannot make enough guns and enough butter at the same time.

In all this, I suspect, the government rates the public intelligence too low. If it were told brutally that all hope of easier times must be abandoned for the present anyway, that all the lush pre-Korea promises are out the window, that everybody is going to pay the cost of safety, then the people of Canada would grumble and co-operate, as they have always done. No one has yet dared to tell them what they are up against.

A Problem In Fitting

As Our Readers See It

RIGHT, MR. TAYLOR

My wife and I much enjoy Mrs. Hodges' column in the Times, especially when the subject matter refers to England, more particularly London, being Londoners ourselves.

We feel we know her well enough, through reading, to write to the newspaper which she has served so long and efficiently, not with the object of correcting her, but merely to quote the record.

In the Times of October 19, she refers to the monument on the Thames Embankment, erected to the memory of Queen Boadicea "driving a spirited team of FOUR horses."

The monument depicts Boadicea in a chariot drawn by TWO horses, according to a picture postcard in our possession.

F. E. TAYLOR,

2875 Tudor Road.
(Editor's Note: Mrs. Hodges was too late to catch her error. She thanks Mr. Taylor for his gracious correction.)

HOSPITAL INSURANCE

The person identified as "Let's be Sensible," in his letter to the Times of the 21st instant suggests that the minority, including the writer are out of step in criticizing the B.C. Hospital Insurance Service.

A man who holds a winning ticket in a sweepstake is not usually reeking with sympathy or concern for those who were less fortunate. "Let's be Sensible," being on the credit side of the ledger is, I suggest, in that category.

His vulgar innuendoes fall however to offer successful contradiction of the statements I have made in this connection.

I may suggest to this person that if more people made public affairs their personal interest, there would be less corruption in politics.

I am not aware of making any statement to the effect that any Insurance Company guaranteed a bed in the hospital.

I stated that greater protection for less money could be obtained from any one of several reputable concerns.

Something more than personal invective and a nom de plume is needed to offer adequate vindication of the B.C. Hospital Insurance Service as presently operated.

If, as and when we are sensible, the B.C. Hospital Insurance Service will be relegated to the files of defunct legislation, or in the alternative operated on an efficient and equitable basis.

BENEFACTRESS REPLIES

Within the past two weeks I have received several cuttings from your paper, regarding my hope to again see Brentwood College rebuilt.

However, I made no such statement that I would will the property to the School in return for them paying the taxes. I am quite able to pay my own taxes and I bargain with no one to pay them for me.

I do not like publicity and especially cheap publicity. And I do not like my picture put in papers.

I lived in Victoria for a good many years. I went to school there and I have always loved Victoria. I grew up with the belief that Victoria was just a little ahead of the rest of the world in culture and in kindness.

For years I read the Times and always preferred your paper to the other paper, perhaps because I thought you were a little kinder in your way of giving undue publicity to the private affairs of the community.

However the two articles which you have printed about me and my personal affairs makes me feel that we Americans have no corner on cheap publicity.

It is true that I have wanted to see Brentwood College rebuilt and it is also true that I would love to see a home for young people who are misunderstood or who may be misfits. I am interested with all my heart in the Youth who will soon take over the reins of our world, but what I am able to do to help I want to do without publicity.

At Brentwood there is nothing to be desired which is not already there except the main building for a Home or School for youth. The large tennis court is in good condition. The boat-house, divingboard, bath house and a wonderful safe small beach and plenty of room for young people to romp and enjoy themselves.

I had no information that University School had assumed obligations of Brentwood College. Perhaps that is the reason they are opposed to another school being built. Some day the proper education will teach us that there is room for many more good schools. The world seems to have plenty of money to buy ammunition to destroy the young people, even though thousands of them are still not old enough to exercise their right to vote, but we all holler when it comes to putting out a few dollars to educate them so that they will not want wars.

Your newspaper articles make it appear that I am begging them to take over the property I own at Brentwood. That is far from true. I can dispose of the property at any time and at a profit if I wanted to, but my hope has been that the beautiful site should be used for the good of the young people.

When I was at Brentwood this summer, I was requested not to allow the public to enjoy my beach but to keep it private for a few. Will you tell me Mr. Editor, is that the way God would have us do? Does He give the sunshine and the rain for a few?

I want people to be happy on my property and I want them to use my beach and I hope they will realize that it is a wonderful place for everybody.

I am looking forward to coming to Victoria early in the spring of 1951 and if there is no possibility of some certainty regarding a school by that time I will either sell the property or will trade it for something in the United States where I can always find room for Homes and Schools for boys.

(Mrs.) MARY H. UNKEFER,

469 Hot Springs Road,

Santa Barbara, Calif.

(Editor's note: The Times admires Mrs. Unkefer's generous gesture in the matter of the Brentwood property, regrets any impression that she was "begging" to have the property taken over. The Times story emanated from a meeting of Old Brentonians in Vancouver at which the offer was discussed, and was handled as a straight news report.)

CORRECTED

The first sentence of the second paragraph of my letter published in your paper of the 23rd instant on the subject: "Stranger than Fiction!" should be made to read: Prophecy is history foretold, and not foreordained. (Printed as received. Ed.)

The way it was printed, the second word contradicts the first word, which, obviously, can not have been my intention.

Travel Diary

Another in a Series

By L. NORMAN SMITH

Associate Editor of The Ottawa Journal

LUCKNOW, India—I suppose a few words about how this Institute of Pacific Relations Conference works may be in order. There are about 105 of us from 13 countries. We are quartered in two pretty good hotels, hold our conference meetings at the Lucknow University.

The first week we divided into three committees or round tables; then we reshuffled the cards and divided into another three. The subject of discussion ranges over the whole of Asia, near, middle and far; and indeed over the world, for Communist Russia is a common bogey (though we dislike it in varying degrees) and the Eastern countries not infrequently carry the argument into Western countries to ask, in effect, "what about the lynchings in Georgia?" or "is Canada's refusal to accept any Asiatic immigrants a measure of your belief in the equality of man?"

The discussions have been calm, but not always entirely friendly. The Indians enjoy an argument and yet are sensitive when rebuffed. The Japanese have shown us all the way to make a neat point and yet withdraw without apparently having been there at all.

INTENTIONAL QUIET

The British have played a role of intentional quiet. When asked a question they'll come out of their rather unbrilliant-looking composure with facts and figures and experienced reasoning, but they've apparently vowed that now that they've been pushed out of the place, they'll not preach or say "I told you so," but merely stay on the sidelines until asked to help.

The Americans are "not entirely popular and have heard not infrequently suggestions that they may have dough but they haven't much culture or intelligence. This the Americans have taken with very good grace, particularly considering that after just such an accusation the accuser usually follows up with a plea for American dollars or greater American understanding.

The Pakistanis, to my view, have won the argument with the Indians over Kashmir, talking with much more restraint and suggesting in delightfully moderate tones that it would be a good idea if at least someone in India read Sir Owen Dixon's report on Kashmir to U.N.

HURL SPEECHES

As so often happens, the half dozen or so men really greatly informed on Asia tend to keep their mouths closed while the rest of us yap. Some Indians, in particular, simply abhor a vacuum and hurl speeches into any second's worth of golden silence that might, if left alone, have lured some wiser delegate to expressing a considered viewpoint. The Canadians spoke very little but, whenever it was either Professor Fred Soward from Vancouver or Professor Edgar McInnis from Toronto, it was something worth saying and worth hearing. Both these men enjoy a high reputation here.

Ups And Downs

By BRIAN A. TORIN

THERE SEEMS TO BE said the Elevator Man, "a queer streak in some people that makes them want to gamble their dignity or their comfort on a chance. You often read of election bets where somebody has promised to do some embarrassing job—pushing a peanut down the street with his nose or wheeling somebody in a wheelbarrow—if he loses. You sometimes wonder if the fella really thought he would win the bet, or hoped he'd lose so he could carry out the screwball penalty. I see where a minister in California got himself into the same kind of fix, although it wasn't exactly on a bet. In trying to rally some new students for his Sunday School class, he told the youngsters that if they'd boost the attendance to 300 he'd 'do something drastic.' In fact, he said, he'd climb on the roof of the building and stand on his head. Well the kids got busy recruiting. Before long there were 500 on the rollcall. And the minister made good his promise. Lower main!

"Talking about ministers and gambling," said the Elevator Man, "reminds me of that story of the English vicar who noticed his gardener handing a slip of paper to a man at the back door. His suspicions were aroused, and he demanded to see the paper. It was a betting slip. The vicar called the gardener back. 'So John,' he chided. 'You waste your money on race horses. Oh foolish John. Oh doubly foolish John. Skipper's Pride hasn't an earthly chance anyway.' Going down!

"It seems to me," said the Elevator Man, "that a lot of us who scoff at foolish bets do a lot of gambling ourselves that's even more foolish. Pushing a peanut with your nose is an easy penalty compared with, say, pushing crutches for a couple of years. That's often the penalty for losing a bet that we can beat that car across the intersection. A year in hospital may go to the loser who bets there isn't anything in his way on the dark stairs. A lifetime limp may be the penalty for losing a bet that you can stand in a soapy tub without holding on. There's lots of ways to gamble, and I guess most of us can't resist a long shot now and then."

French Troops Retreat From Outlying Indo-China Posts

SAIGON (AP)—A military spokesman said today that French troops have been withdrawn from outlying positions around isolated Laokay, last French bastion on Indo-China's northwest frontier.

From Laokay itself civilians were being evacuated by air to Hanoi, 150 miles to the south-east.

French troops pulled in from Laokay's outposts were reported digging defence lines in anticipation of an assault by menacing guerrilla forces of Moscow-trained Ho Chi-minh's Viet-minh.

Laokay's principal outlying defence position at Muong Khuong, 18 miles to the north-east, was abandoned, the spokesman said. The troops moved back closer to Laokay.

Britain's Meat Imports Below Total Needed

LONDON (AP)—A gloomy picture of future meat stocks in Britain has been painted by the executive council of the National Federation of Meat Traders' Association.

After criticizing Food Minister Maurice Webb for his "optimistic prediction" that imports from Australia could be increased vastly in the near future, the council recorded that lack of dollars is preventing Britain from trying to buy carcass meat in the United States and Canada.

The report added: "Now, due to the continued heaving over prices and exchange rates, we have no present agreement for meat with Argentina, Uruguay, Brazil or Chile. Imports from the Irish Republic in 1949 were also five-eighths of the 1938 tonnage figures. The short fall of meat imports from Australia was fortunately offset by the increase in supplies from New Zealand. Supplies from Denmark were less than two-thirds of the 1938 figures, and Holland is down to approximately three-fifths. The over-all import figure, with the sole exception of New England, is therefore a gloomy one."

The council admitted home production is increasing, but "we are confronted with the stark fact that the Ministry of Food have insufficient slaughter-houses in operation to cope with a higher peak kill."

Campbell Wins New Support In Election Vote

WINNIPEG (CP)—Premier Douglas L. Campbell, who is expected to lose shortly the support of Progressive Conservatives in his Coalition government, got help Tuesday from two quarters to lighten the blow.

In two provincial by-elections both seats were won by Liberals supporting the Coalition administration. Liberal supporters now number 31 in the 57-member assembly.

The victors were Thomas P. Hillhouse, Selkirk, Man., lawyer who has been secretary of the Liberal Association in Selkirk for 20 years, and Albert Trapp, a former reeve making his first political bid. Hillhouse won in St. Clements.

Later this week at Brandon the Progressive Conservative Association at its annual convention is expected to vote heavily in favor of breaking up the 10-year Coalition. How many Progressive Conservatives will remain with the government is not known, but Premier Campbell has a safe margin even if the cleavage is complete.

New standings: Coalition—Liberal-Progressive 28, Progressive Conservative 7, others 7. Total 42. Opposition—C.C.F. 7, Conservative 2, Independent Progressive Conservatives, Progressive Conservative 2, others 2. Total 15.

Trapp had an easy victory, polling 2,466 votes against 242 for A. Bilecki, Labor-Progressive candidate, and 540 for Harry Wasyluk, C.C.F., in 33 of 37 polls.

There were also only incomplete returns from St. Andrews constituency—20 of 21 polls—where a second count will have to be taken under Manitoba's single-transferable-vote system of balloting before Mr. Hillhouse is officially declared elected.

THE HOME GARDEN

Plant Tulips Deep To Avoid Disease

By JACK G. BEASTALL

Late October being the time to plant tulip bulbs a few pointers at this date should not be amiss.

The tulip likes to be planted deep, and assuming that no gardener will place the bulbs where water lies during winter, it is safe to say as deep as possible. In a well-drained sandy loam one can go as deep as six to eight inches, but this must be modified in soils of a heavier nature.

It is claimed that shallow planting makes the tulip more susceptible to the disease known as fire, and this idea is by no means improbable. A far more effective spring showing will be obtained when tulips of one variety and color are planted in a group. By studying professional plantings made in public parks and large private gardens, it is easy to see that the tulip is not a flower to be grown singly; its beauty is enhanced by massed effects.

ATTRACTIVE IN GROUPS
It is unlikely that the home gardener will be setting out a bed of 500 bulbs; six bulbs is nearer the average. But even then the six will look much more attractive in a group than six single plants stretching for ten feet along a border.

The actual design of a group planting may be made to suit the individual, but it usually follows a geometrical pattern, being circular, oblong square,

Council Decides Against Changes In Garage By-Law

City Council marked "30" to the spate of requests by some garages for midnight closure which would necessitate an amendment to the very new by-law governing hours of sale of gasoline.

Following the reading of a lengthy report from City Solicitor A. J. Patton at council meeting Tuesday, Ald. Harold Diggon, who had asked for the report, said he felt it would "be foolish to try to amend the by-law."

Some storage garages wished to stay open until midnight for sale of gasoline and oil as well as storage. Under the by-law garages must close at 6 in the evening or maintain a 24-hour service.

"I understand that some of the 24-hour stations have storage facilities," said Ald. Diggon, adding that thus the public is served.

King, Queen To See Fictionized Slice Of Family History

LONDON (AP)—The King and Queen are going to the movies on Monday to see a fictionalized slice of family history. It's "The Mudlark," a story about Queen Victoria and a little ragamuffin who breaks into Windsor Castle.

The film was produced in Britain by 20th Century-Fox with Irene Dunne, the only American in the cast, playing the role of Queen Victoria.

King George himself had an unofficial part in selecting the picture as the royal film for 1950, that is, the film chosen for a royal performance.

The Royal Family had already shown an active interest in the filming of the story and held a lengthy discussion with Miss Dunne. Queen Mary, who had bought two copies of the novel on which the movie is based, incidentally advised Miss Dunne that Queen Victoria had a "sweet voice."

City Council's unanimous action Tuesday followed hearing of reports from Maj. J. R. Grant, consulting engineer of Vancouver and Cyril Jones, city engineer, on the serious decay of some timbers in the bridge deck discovered when the public works department removed the old street railway tracks. Maj. Grant was brought from Vancouver to inspect the bridge.

"I want no fear complex about this however," said Mayor Percy George during debate, adding that the bridge is in no worse condition from a safety angle.

Ald. J. D. Hunter, chairman of public works, moved the money by-law motion and was seconded by Ald. Frank Mulliner.

"NOT DANGEROUS"

"I feel that the bridge with the present restrictions is not dangerous," Ald. Hunter said. "Nevertheless those restrictions annoy the public."

"We will have to replace the bridge sooner or later and the sooner the better."

He said Maj. Grant was paid $5,000 by the city some time ago to draw plans for a proposed new bridge. The temporary repairs authorized will be desirable only if the bridge is to be replaced in three years, Maj. Grant said.

He listed three other types of repairs varying in cost from $11,000 to $25,000. The second type would suffice for five years, the third for 15. The fourth would require a new north deck to match the existing south half.

"It is doubtful if the cost of this complete repair is justified as the traffic restrictions would still need to be imposed," Maj. Grant stated in his report.

Mr. Jones said Pt. Ellice was one of two available arteries from Victoria West and Esquimalt to Victoria. He referred to the increase in water-borne traffic under Johnson Street bridge which has resulted in double the number of lifts this year to last.

TRAFFIC INCREASING

He spoke also of the growing importance of the bridge as a traffic artery with particular reference to the military and naval establishments in Esquimalt.

In view of the heavy traffic over both Johnson and Pt. Ellice Bridges, Ald. Waldo Skilling suggested the new bridge be built along the lines of Vancouver's Burrard Bridge with ample facilities for a large amount of traffic.

LISTED FOR TRIAL is Elsie Teasdale, 33, Toronto bookkeeper, above. Basis of the charge is $38,000 a Toronto law firm says disappeared over a period. Michael Manos, 27, a private investigator who was employed by the firm, is charged jointly with Miss Teasdale and they are to appear in court Oct. 31. Toronto police said Tuesday the $38,000 was lost betting on horses running at Ontario race tracks last summer.—(S.N.S. Photo)

Considering Extra Green For Bowlers

A third lawn bowling green in Beacon Hill Park would be an investment not an expense to the city of Victoria.

Thus did John Delf, president of the Victoria Lawn Bowling Club, present a petition to the city at council meeting Tuesday. Backed up by a goodly number of bowlers who attended the meeting and ex-Ald. R. A. C. Dewar, Mr. Delf said the club was responsible for bringing 50 to 100 visitors here annually for the competitions in August.

The estimated cost of a new green is about $5,000. City Council referred the matter to the parks board for study and report.

"To date we have made an investment of $15,000 which belongs to the city, not to us," Mr. Delf said of the maintenance of the greens and erection of the buildings.

"When you build a tennis court or cricket pitch you get no maintenance; you are out of pocket. Not so with the lawn bowling."

Mr. Dewar said the club had built and maintained the greens on its own until four years ago. The present two are now overcrowded, he said.

GREETINGS FROM EDMONTON

Ald. William Hawrelak of Edmonton brought greetings to Victoria from the prairie city at council meeting Tuesday.

In Victoria on business, Ald. Hawrelak sat in for part of the meeting. Mayor Percy George asked him to take greetings from the city to the mayor and council of Edmonton.

FEWER ALDERMEN?

Manager Asked For Views On Reduction

The civic hot potato of a reduced aldermanic board was tossed neatly into the lap of City Manager Cecil Wyatt Tuesday afternoon after some smooth passing at the regular council meeting.

A move by Ald. Waldo Skilling to have the question placed before the voters at the December election was lost.

In its stead council agreed to refer the matter to Mr. Wyatt for consideration and report to a committee of the whole at some future date.

"We should get an expression of opinion from the people if they are in favor of it or not," was Ald. Skilling's view.

Mayor Percy George, in recommending that the matter be referred to Mr. Wyatt for his consideration, recalled that such was his expressed intention when he first broached the subject in Nov. of 1949.

"This is a matter of policy and the City Council should take the responsibility and not put it on the shoulders of the city manager," said Ald. Percy Scourah.

NOT SOLD ON IDEA
"I am not sold on the idea of reducing the council to six nor of any precipitate action at this time."

Mayor George said he was not prepared to go to the people on the matter until he had a considered opinion to offer on the advisability of reducing the aldermanic board. He said when he suggested opinion of Mr. Wyatt be sought, he did not expect a report in a matter of a month or two. He realized it would take considerable time.

Ald. Scourah did not agree with the immediate plebiscite.

To Be Sentenced On Cheque Charges

Pleading guilty to a charge of uttering a forged cheque on the Esquimalt branch of the Bank of Montreal and obtaining $125, John Syvenky was remanded to Monday for sentence by Magistrate H. C. Hall at a special sitting of Esquimalt police court Tuesday. The magistrate asked for a probation officer's report on Syvenky.

Eat Harmless Substances To Help Reduce Weight

New York Physician Reports Success In New Experiments With Obese People

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE

NEW YORK (AP)—A new experiment in reducing gives fat people harmless substances that expand in their stomachs, partly filling them so they won't eat so much food.

It is described by Dr. A. D. Jonas of New York City in the journal, American Practitioner and Digest of Treatment.

Twenty persons, taking these materials before meals, lost two to eight pounds a month, reducing by 10 to 45 pounds, he said.

The products are two kinds used to produce bulk, to aid against constipation. Both swell to several times their normal volume when mixed with water. One (siblin) is a flaky powder from a plant, the other (cello-thyl) is a tablet composed of synthetic methylcellulose.

They have no food value and don't interfere with digestion.

Dr. Jonas had the patients take three to six tablets or doses of the products a half-hour before meals, with a big glass of water. They helped create a sensation of fullness, he said.

"The appetite remained unchanged, but it seemed to be appeased with smaller quantities of food. The obese person still enjoyed his meals, but was unable to finish his plate. Rigid diet restrictions were not necessary."

BY OVEREATING

Obesity is almost always due to eating more food than your body can use. Many people overeat because they feel insecure, lack affection, are bored, or have other emotional problems, Dr. Jonas writes.

These feelings and cravings may create a sensation of emptiness, mistaken as hunger, he says. In any case it is hard for them to reduce because they turn to food for satisfaction.

The 20 patients in the study were 11 women and nine men, from 25 to 56 years old. Five had been fat all their lives, the others for periods of six to 20 years.

Canada's Denmark Trade Fell Off

OTTAWA (BUP)—Canadian trade with Denmark fell off sharply during 1949, according to the foreign trade service of the Trade Department.

The service listed exports to Denmark last year as $3,109,461 compared with $7,747,526 during 1948. Imports took a dive from $9,584,656 to $1,893,367.

A 10,079,559-pound butter purchase by the Dominion in Denmark, due to shortages at home, accounted for most of the 1948 imports—$7,213,931. Butter imports last year reached only $801,548, but still amounted to 40 per cent of the 1948 purchases in Denmark.

Metals—copper rods, strips and sheets and aluminum—headed the list of sales made to Danish firms last year. Harvesters, binders and herring meal; carts, wagons and tractors followed.

Butter, cryolite, cheese and grass seed topped the items sought by Canadians.

12,018 Seal Skins, Canadian Share

OTTAWA, Ont. (BUP)—Canada's share of the 1950 catch of the famed Pribiloff seals was 12,018 skins, under the provision fur seal agreement with the United States.

A total of 60,000 seals were caught this year, the smallest catch in three years. Natives blamed unseasonably warm weather and a heavy field of seaweed in the shoals off the islands.

They said the combination kept thousands of the seals from completing their annual migration to the famous mating grounds.

Under the fur seal agreement

Canada receives 20 per cent of the catch. Over the past five years this has brought an average of about 13,000 skins to Canada, valued at more than $500,000 annually.

By RED SMITH

NEW YORK—This was at dinner in Lew Tendler's steak house in Philadelphia and Lew, who would have been the greatest light-weight fighter in the world if the world had not included Benny Leonard, was spinning yarns. He was talking of his early education which, you might say, he got backwards, for he learned to punish the solar plexus first and then to pronounce it.

"I'm just a punk kid and never been anywhere," Lew said, "and my manager, Phil Glassman, takes me out to Denver to fight this Stanley Yoakum, Soak 'Em Yoakum. I'm such a punk kid I don't even know anything about how they build up a fight in advance, so I can hardly believe it when the train gets to Denver and there's hundreds of newsboys at the station with a band playing and a great big banner that says, 'Welcome Lew Tendler, the Newsboys' Champion.' I can't understand how they ever hear of me when I never even been in Denver."

"We get in an open car and ride to the hotel and the streets are all decorated with flags and banners. I'm so choked up I can't say a word, but finally I say, 'This is the nicest thing that ever happened to me in my life. It must cost the city hundreds of dollars to decorate the streets like this for me.' Glassman says, 'For you, you bum! This Woodrow Wilson was in Denver the other day. The flags are for the President of the United States.' This Yoakum is a very tough boy, and for three rounds I'm beating him on the chin, bang, bang, bang, and he don't even blink. After the third, Glassman tells me, 'Look, take that same punch you been hitting him on the chin and hit him in the belly with it.' So in the fourth round I let him have the left here in the body—I'm a southpaw, of course, and that's my best punch—and I hear him gasp and I know I got him. I let him have it again and down he goes and he don't get up. I don't even know what knocks him out but the next day I read in the papers about my solar plexus punch, which, if you asked me, I would of said solar plexus was some place down in South America like the Panama Canal."

"So that's how I become a body puncher, and I learn that these tough guys that you can hit 'em on the chin all night, they don't like it down here."

"Did you ever fight another southpaw?" Lew was asked. "Sure, I knock out the champion of them all, George K. O. Chaney. But first," Lew said, "he almost knocks me out. The first time I fight him I've got a bad hand and I'm just going to hit him in the body where I won't hurt my hand. But Chaney is the kind of a guy that if you miss him he's insulted, he's that easy to hit. You miss him, he chases you all around the ring sticking out his chin."

"So I'm hitting him in the body, and his chin is so wide open I can't resist it. I take just one shot at the chin, and bang, there goes my hand. After that I can't punch at all and he belts my brains all over the ring, six rounds, no decision."

"When my hand is healed up I want Chaney back again and it's a good match because he give me such a beating and Jack McGuigan makes it. I walk out and you can't miss him, and bang, bang, he goes down and out in the first round for a record."

"But aren't there some fighters like it downstairs better than on the chin, Lew?"

"I never meet any. There's a kid named Joe Tiplitz in the same stable as me and he's a pretty good fighter and we're very good friends but he breaks up with Glassman. So Glassman makes a bet between us to get even with this Tiplitz and I know Phil is betting that I knock him out."

"But I'm very fond of Joe, and I call him up and tell him, 'Look, train hard and get in good shape and don't worry, I'll take care of you.'"

"Somehow the word gets around that the fix is in. The boxing commissioner calls me up and gives me hell and tells me that if I try to pull anything he'll have me thrown out of the ring and I won't get paid and he'll sue me for $50,000. Then when we get in the ring the referee gives us hell again about how if there's anything suspicious, out of the ring we go. He's making believe he's warning both of us but it's my nose he's shaking his finger under."

"Well, I start hitting Joe on the chin and I'm winning easy enough but he's in good shape and the more I punch him the better he likes it. We're going along, bang, bang, bang, and then I see an opening and I let him have the left in the belly."

"He gasps and falls into a clinch and I hear him whispering in my ear, 'Chin, chin, chin,' he's saying, 'Chin, chin, chin.' Like that."

"So the rest of the fight I hit him on the chin as hard as I can all night and he loves it. I'm doing him a real big favor."

Young Normie Kirk, starry New Westminster Royals' left-winger, maintained his lead in the Pacific Coast Hockey League scoring race during the past week, boosting his margin to three points over Portland's Walt Samanski.

Kirk has eight goals and nine assists to his credit for a 17-point total in the nine games he has played, while Samanski's record is five goals and nine assists. Both players are leading the circuit in the play-making department, and Kirk has the lead in the sniping.

Another New Westminster forward, portly Bobby Love, is third with 13 points.

A two-minute call in last night's game with New Westminster gave Tacoma rearguard Norm Gustavsen the lead in the penalty parade again over the Cougars' Don Webster. In nine

IT'S MY VIEW

By BILL WALKER

For those who came in late on this week's episode from this corner, we are dealing with a trip to the World Series and way points recently taken by yours truly and three other Victorians, a 21-day road jaunt from which we have just returned.

After the series, which we wrote off rather hurriedly, but no quicker than the Yankees disposed of the Phils, we took in a few of New York's hi-spots then packed our blue Hornet and took off for Toronto. Ernie Fox, the elongated cage star, voted himself in as guide for this portion of the journey, as he politely informed us that he knew all there was to know about the city of the good with its cocktail bars, Sunday sport et al., as he had been brung up in the east.

Toronto, Not At Its Best

Things went along splendidly until we hit the Lakeshore drive. Then we had our choice as to whether to take the normal course of traffic or have a conducted tour along the scenic route which parallels Lake Ontario. This would probably have been extremely interesting but for the fact that the C.N.E. exhibition grounds (largest in the British Empire, did you say, Ernie?), famed Sunnyside Park, Toronto's summer paradise, and the board walk where Easter bunnies go on parade, were either locked up tight for the season or obscured by a driving rain that made it impossible to see more than a block or two. But Ernie, a poor man's Rebel Mowat, tried hard and kept up a continual line of chatter despite the sometimes uncomplimentary remarks of his passengers.

After checking into one of the medium class hostleries (we were traveling on short rations in the matter of bedding purposes), we learned that our west coast Adanacs were doing battle with Owen Sound in the Mann Cup finals at Maple Leaf Gardens that evening.

Toronto's daylight saving time threw us out one hour and it wasn't until just before half-time that we forded our way through a good eight inches of water into the Gardens.

Owen Sound Classy But Colorless

Before our arrival the A's had managed to hold Owen Sound even at 4 to 4, but in the second half either our presence or the Owen Sound policy of walking the ball all over the floor upset the yellowjackets. The easterners played a game that would hardly send any crowd into hysterics and the customers, a meagre gathering of 2,861, continually stamped for action as the game progressed. And from what we saw of that game Owen Sound appeared to be a team that would be hard to beat once they got the lead but if trailing would have a tough time reducing any sizeable deficit.

Adanacs in the games we witnessed lacked their usual drive while Owen Sound showed the best passing we had seen this year. It was probably the steadier play of the easterners that decided the series. Victorians who were wondering why Arnold Ferguson didn't see action didn't feel any worse about it than coach Bob Lee or manager Truck MacDonald of the A's. If it had been at all possible Fergie would have been in uniform. And he might have made the difference. But one thing Fergie did during his short stay in the east was to act as a perfect "director of entertainment." How else but through the Adanacs could our crew have obtained tickets for the home opener of the Maple Leafs hockey club in the Gardens that coming Saturday night.

Tuck Embry Says 'Hello'

But before taking in the Chicago-Toronto tussle there were a few other items on the agenda. These included looking up old friends such as Tuck Embry, a former city athlete. Tuck is domiciled in Toronto now but wished to be remembered to all his old friends in the west. Then as a slight diversion from our sports-viewing activities of a major nature, two of the boys took in the junior hockey double bill at the Gardens Saturday afternoon. "It was really fast," they said.

Ice making is only a minor problem at Toronto as compared to our apparently jinxed structure up Arena Way. They play lacrosse Friday night, hockey Saturday afternoon and evening and lacrosse again Sunday afternoon. Oh yes, we had a small chuckle—after we heard that no one was hurt—when we got the news that time had run out on our Arena clock.

About N.H.L. hockey—we saw two games, the one in Toronto and another in Detroit the following evening, and we'll tell you more about it tomorrow. Space ran out here.

Irish Lose Another

Indiana's right halfback Eugene Gedman (44) carries the ball for no gain, while Danny Thomas (67) and Robertson (46) of Indiana ward off interference of Notre Dame's Robert Kaphishle (84). Indiana handed the once-powerful Notre Dame its second loss, won with a score of 20 to 7. Purdue had previously defeated the Irish 28 to 14.

Less Cheesecake For 'Gertrude' Player Feud May Cost Puck Body $70,000

NEW YORK (AP)—Gertrude Moran, the tennis player, is getting pretty fed up with gorgeous Gussy Moran, of lace panties fame. So says Gertrude. "Cheesecake, cheesecake, cheesecake—all day long it's cheesecake," she complained today. "I'm sick of it and I've put my foot down."

This miniature rebellion is causing mild friction between the shapely Santa Monica, Calif., lobbyist and Robert Riggs, promoter of the professional tennis troupe opening in Madison Square Garden tomorrow night.

Mount View, Bays Meet In Deciding Tilt

The undefeated Mount View squad held its lead in the Junior Interhigh Soccer League Monday by tying the Vic High Golds, 0 to 0. Oak Bay High moved into a tie for the top spot by edging Mount Douglas High 2 to 1.

In the third game, played at Esquimalt High, the Victoria High School Blacks emerged victorious over Esquimalt by the score of 1 to 0.

At Windsor Park, Mount Douglas High took an early 1 to 0 lead over Oak Bay High at the half on a goal by Ted Johnston. Oak Bay fought back and finally tied it up when David Unwin found the net. Michael Price notched the winning goal for Oak Bay.

Mount View played its fourth game without being scored against but came off the Victoria High School field with its second tie. The entire Mount View team played a good game, keeping the ball at the Golds' end most of the time. Bob Zarry, fullback for the Golds, played a sterling defensive game along with Lou Poy, the V.H.S. goalie.

At Esquimalt High the lone goal of the game was scored by Steve Foster of the Victoria High School Blacks midway in the first half. Play was ragged but even for the rest of the game.

The final games of the schedule will be played Monday. Oak Bay High and Mount View meet at Mount View in what will be the deciding game of the league.

Silver Fox To Miss Silver Anniversary

New York Rangers start their silver anniversary season in New York tonight with silver sticks but no Patricks.

The sticks won't be real silver, just painted wood as a sentimental sign that the Rangers are playing their 25th season in the National Hockey League.

But this game will be the first time that the Rangers have played in New York without a Patrick—first Lester and then Lynn—at the helm. To make it worse, the Patrick will be in the enemy's camp.

Lynn, who shifted over to coach Boston Bruins this season after almost winning the Stanley Cup with the Rangers last year, will be leading his new charges into Madison Square Garden for the first time this year.

The game is important to both teams. Who played a scoreless draw Sunday night in Boston. The Bruins are still looking for their first victory after four starts. The Rangers, whose home opening was delayed by a rodeo, haven't done much better with only one win and a draw in five games on the road.

Meantime, Detroit Red Wings meet the Maple Leafs at Toronto with the Leafs looking for a victory that will hurdle them over the idle Montreal Canadiens into first place, and the third-place Wings trying to tie the Toronto for second position.

30 YEARS AT HELM

It was back in 1926 that the Patricks and the Rangers first became synonymous. Lester, chosen to guide the new N.H.L. club as manager-coach, stayed for 20 years, seven times winning the Stanley Cup.

Once, his hair even then silver, he won the world hockey championship for them by stepping into the nets when the regular goalie was hurt in Montreal and giving a memorable performance.

In 1946 Lester stepped up into the front office and Frank Boucher took over as coach while Lynn was being groomed for the job. Last summer the elder Patrick severed his connections with the club and returned to Victoria Cougars in the Pacific Coast League.

Tonight there'll be the usual opening game ceremonies for New York fans. League president Clarence Campbell will present the Hart Trophy to goalie Chuck Rayner, last year's winner of the most-valuable-player award.

Autumn Cup Won By Mrs. Dowell

Carding an 84-24—81½, Mrs. A. Dowell succeeded Mrs. H. T. Matson as winner of the Autumn Cup at the Colwood Golf Club Tuesday.

Winning the cup is not new to Mrs. Dowell, however. She has held the trophy for eight times in the three-round eclectic competition, which is decided by subtracting one-third of the handicap for the best score of the three rounds.

Despite the fact Mrs. T. A. Jackson tied for the honors with an 86-44—81½, Mrs. Dowell's better score for the last nine gave her possession of the silverware. Mrs. T. G. Harris, with a 98-17-81, and Mrs. H. Valo, with an 115-34—81, tied for medal honors on the third round.

Power Expansion

CAPETOWN (CP) — South Africa will spend more than $25,000,000 in Britain for electrical equipment during the next five years. The expenditure is just under half of the estimate for power development, the remainder being for civil engineering and other costs in South Africa.

Old Motor Runs

PETERBOROUGH, Ont. (CP) — The oldest small piece of equipment manufactured in Peterborough, a 230-volt electric motor dating from 1891 or 1892, recently was found in a junk heap in Cornwall and has been purchased by the Canadian General Electric Company here. The motor still runs.

World May Sight Comets Brighter Than Halley's

Harvard Astronomer Propounds Newest Theory Of Composition Of Heavenly Visitors

NEW YORK (UP) — Dr. Fred L. Whipple, Harvard astronomer, believes the world may see comets far more spectacular than Halley's, the comet that last appeared in 1910 and scared the daylight out of a lot of people.

Whipple, who recently developed a theory on the make-up of a comet, told the National Academy of Sciences there are probably 100,000,000,000 comets now zooming around in the solar system.

His studies show the nucleus of the average comet is about two miles in diameter and that the larger ones, such as Halley's, go up to 10 miles in diameter.

Whipple said the comets move with the sun and that "undoubtedly some have been lost" when they got too close to the sun or some star outside our solar system.

His new theory says ice, ammonia and methane are inside the head of a comet. The cosmic "snowballs" reflect light from the sun and their tail is made up of gases and vapor caused by evaporation of the ice as the comet nears the sun.

Whipple said it is unlikely a comet would hit the earth in one place, because heat from the earth's atmosphere would cause most of the comet to vaporize.

"A comet hitting a city wouldn't do much damage," he said. "Of course, if one landed in the ocean, it would make a big splash and might cause a big wave."

200-MILE SPEED

Comets, he said, have speeds varying from 25 miles a second when they are "close" to the earth to about 200 miles an hour when they are far out in space.

Whipple said the comets were formed at about the same time as earth and the other planets, or perhaps prior to them. His studies show the comets have not lost any of their mass, and that therefore any fear the sun is losing some of its mass can be eliminated.

Churchill Name For Street Barred

STAFFORD, Eng. (Reuter) — A few Labor members of the city council here have protested a plan to name a street "Churchill Way."

Alderman S. H. Dawson, speaking in the housing committee of the council, which has a Conservative majority, said that "when the political complexion of this council alters, that name will be altered."

Councillor Edward Robinson interjected: "I do not think houses provided by the foresight of the Labor government should be named after one of the bitterest enemies of the working class."

The proposal to name the street was passed.

Rats Inyade S. Australia

SYDNEY, Australia (CP) — Hordes of rats have invaded outlying stations south of Cooper's Creek, near Lake Frome, South Australia. The influx is believed partly due to an exceptionally wet season.

The rats have not invaded homes or caused any noticeable damage as yet. They are spread over an area of hundreds of miles, and people from stations around Lyndhurst and Copley report that the rodents can be seen all over their stations.

Ben Burton, lands department fence inspector, said that at one time the rats could be seen traveling in millions towards Lake Frome.

He said: "The grass is about a foot high in the area, and they couldn't be seen clearly, but their movements gave the grass the appearance that it was continually moving in a southward direction."

Bill Leslie, part owner of stations at Moolawatana and Mount Flitton, said the rats had apparently subsided in recent weeks, but might be nesting.

"A few weeks ago," he said, "they were to be seen in millions during the day on our properties. However, in the last couple of weeks they have started to nest and can be seen only at night."

"Fortunately, they haven't troubled our homes yet. However, this is due to the fact that there is plenty of natural feed about for them."

Dogs Trained At Ottawa 'College'

OTTAWA (BUP) — Thirty purebred dogs of the capital district graduated this month from a unique school with diplomas for obedience and good behavior.

The school, believed to be the first of its kind in Canada, is sponsored by the Eastern Ontario Collie Club. The object is to turn undisciplined pets into disciplined friends.

The 10-week course at the College for Canines was launched by the club to prepare purebred dogs for the club's second championship specialty show at the Coliseum.

The show is set aged primarily for collie and Shetland sheep dogs. However, all breeds of purebred dogs may be entered in the show's obedience trials.

Most of the dogs entered in the obedience trials are students at the school of good manners.

During the course the dogs receive one hour's training each Monday night on all the things good dogs should know. The classes are conducted on a vacant lot under direction of officials of the collie club.

FOSSILS OF BIG SLOTH SET UP

WASHINGTON (AP) — Six tons of fossil bones of a giant ground sloth extinct since about the end of the Ice Age are being cleaned and repaired at the Smithsonian Institution.

Announcing this, the Smithsonian said experts will attempt to reconstruct a complete skeleton of the sloth for display in Washington and will return the rest of the fossil bone collection to Panama, where it was dug up.

The sloth, of about the bulk of an elephant, once ranged from Argentina to the southern United States.

HELP PREVENT TOOTH DECAY!

BEFORE IT STARTS... INSTEAD OF AFTER IT APPEARS

AMMONIATED LISTERINE TOOTH PASTE

...designed to help prevent decay 3 ways!

You've undoubtedly read about this great new anti-decay formula in your newspapers and magazines. It's the famous formula, developed by the University of Illinois Foundation, that caused such a vast interest in dental circles because of its promising method of attacking tooth decay by means of the chemical action of the ammonium ion.

In preliminary tests conducted at the University, case after case of reduction in the incidence of tooth decay was reported. Now the manufacturers of Listerine Antiseptic make this same formula readily available to you and to your family with the introduction of Listerine Ammoniated Tooth Paste.

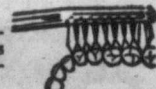

Start in with Listerine Ammoniated Tooth Paste today. Use it regularly, as directed, morning and night and immediately after eating. Notice its delightful, tingly, refreshing flavor. You'll like it. Your children will like it. Lambert Pharmaceutical Co. (Canada) Ltd., Toronto, Ontario.

1. Chemical action reduces mouth acidity. Mouth acidity encourages decay.

2. Mechanical action cleans surfaces as teeth are brushed—helps break up and remove decay-breeding deposits.

3. Chemical action checks acid-forming bacteria—a major cause of decay.

LICENSED BY UNIVERSITY OF ILLINOIS FOUNDATION!

TO APPEAR HERE Nov. 3 under auspices of Canadian Federation of Music Teachers' Associations, Victoria branch, is 15-year-old Winnipeg pianist, Sidney Elizabeth Young, scholarship winner in Manitoba.

Judy Garland's Exit At M-G-M Was Hastened By Video Offers

By ERSKINE JOHNSON

HOLLYWOOD (NEA)—Tele-vision played a bigger role than Judy Garland was willing to publicly admit when she negotiated a release from her M-G-M contract. Several TV appearances (barred by the M-G-M contract) are in the offing. Rumor to the contrary, M-G-M tried to keep Judy's name on the dotted line for at least one film a year, but she said no.

Joan Fontaine's quick quip about that horizontal photograph of her in the billboards for "Born to Be Bad":

"Really, I'm a vertical actress."

Ed Gardner's "Duffy's Tavern" won't get on the air this year but N.B.C. still has to pay him a salary for 52 weeks. When the contract expires, Ed will come up with a whole new show. . . John Swallow writes that Rudy Vallee's TV enterprise, Vallee-Video, is still in business with "less than $100,000 invested." . . . John Garfield will collect $80 a week for his Broadway appearance this winter in "Peer Gynt"—a $20 a week raise over his paychecks for last season's "Slipper Next to God."

CAN'T HELP SMILING

"It's awful," Jack Smith smiled. Nine years ago a radio network press agent labeled him "The Man With the Smile in His Voice." He's been a professional happiness boy ever since with such things as a grandmother's fan club and the reputation of being the most ribbed singer on the air—Groucho Marx claims Jack even smiles when he cries.

"I can't ever be sad and it's awful," Jack grinned. But his fans love it. He's had the same radio sponsor for five years and now he's a click on the supper club circuit at the Coconut Grove.

However, this happiness thing is disconcerting, Jack says, because, for instance, he likes conservative clothes.

"But I have to look happy so I wear purple plaid sport coats. I smile for my publicity pictures and I get real mad because I look so happy. I like to sing ballads but I'm typed with happy songs."

Slick dialog in "To Please a Lady":

Clark Gable, after testing an automobile race track for soft spots, picks Barbara Stanwyck up in his arms when she twists her ankle and comments, "You've got some soft spots, too."

John Wayne can't wait to plunk himself down in a director's chair for his own independent production, "The Alamo."

"How long have I wanted to direct? Just since the day when I started as a prop-man with John Ford in a picture called 'Mother Machree'."

The buzz that John and Howard Hughes are growing at one another because of the delay in completing scenes for "Jet Pilot" is denied by Wayne, who told me: "They're simple, easy process shots. I'll do them when I finish 'Operation Pacific' at Warner."

Note from Harry Cluney: "On the order of 'G-Men,' 'T-Men,' and 'C-Men,' how about a movie about preachers titled 'A-Men'."

Train Jumps Track

BINGHAMTON, N.Y. (AP)—The Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad said here its crack passenger train, the Phoebe Snow, jumped the rails and was wrecked near Buffalo Tuesday.

A spokesman said he understood no one was killed. He said he had been informed a number of persons were injured, but none of them seriously.

PICTURES HAWAII

Art Centre Displays Striking Watercolors

Have you lived in Hawaii, visited there, dreamed of going some day? Whichever it is, the current exhibition of water-colors at the Arts Centre, Broughton Street, is for you.

Of the 20 pictures by two important U.S. women artists, Juanita Vitousek's 10 studies of the Hawaiian scene struck us as being extraordinarily graphic and at the same time expressed in an individual, completely uninhibited idiom.

In "Hawaiian Farm," "Leaf Pattern" and "Roof Tops," to name three of our favorites, she brings one an instant comprehension of the heat, the rampaging vegetation and flamboyant color, the indolently-moving life of the tropic islands. Her style combines large areas of opulent color, cool poised against hot, simplicity of form and flowing, rhythmic lines. But there is no sense of carelessness or crudity. Everything is conceived by a master eye for the character of the subject and carried out with boldness, precision and, most certainly—joy!

Pauline Polk's subjects are flowers and still-life groups. She makes use of glowing, passionate color at times; at others, the most remote delicacy, to convey her decorative feeling for the forms of flowers and the geometric patterns inherent in furniture and fruit.

"Summer Afternoon" is almost an abstraction; vibrating with color and immensely pleasing in design. There is a distinctly French character to several of her studies, notably "Bouquet and Parasol" and "Flowers at the Window." Each of these two is so vastly different from the other that it is difficult to believe the same artist executed both.

"Callas and Lemons" is one of Miss Polk's most delightful items, exceptionally sensitive and combining calligraphic indication of form with clear wash.

HOLLYWOOD REVIEW

No Unanimity Among Movie Actors On Beefcake Display

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—To bare or not to bare. That is the question debated by two rising young film actors.

In one corner is Anthony Curtis, who told me recently that he jumped to stardom after he had stripped at the beach for some "beefcake" photos. His gal fans went wild over his exposed frame.

Now comes Keefe Brasselle, who says "leg art should be left to the glamour girls." He took sharp issue with Curtis' claim that showing the torso is a shortcut to success.

FAMED FRAME

First of all, Brasselle emphasized that his build can stack up against that of Curtis or any of the other glamour boys.

"I've done picture layouts at the beach myself," he said, "so I have nothing to hide. But lately I've turned down five requests for swimsuit picture spreads."

"I don't think there is anything exciting about beefcake. The mail I get from fans proves that. They mention my eyes, my face, but not my chest."

Brasselle cited actors who he feels display sex appeal.

"George Raft can put across sex better than any man in the movies," he claimed.

No Major Coffee Price Cut For At Least One Year

Top U.S.-Canadian Experts Give Warning To Housewives On Outlook For Beverage

SEIGNIOBY CLUB, Que. (BUP)—Canadian housewives are being warned not to look for any major decrease in coffee prices.

The American continent's top coffee experts told the annual convention of the Tea and Coffee Association of Canada here Tuesday that coffee would continue to sell at about $1 a pound for at least a year, and perhaps much longer.

The experts agreed coffee prices now had "leveled out," and would fluctuate around the $1 mark. They saw no major increase or decrease in prices "for many months."

Roberto Aguilar, director of the Pan-American Coffee Bureau, said that for the first time in 20 years the price of coffee was related to the costs of production. He said consumer prices had risen to their "true economic level" in accordance with the natural law of supply and demand.

Aguilar said that in past years coffee had been sold at price levels which were economically unsound. These "disastrously low prices were not only harmful to the producing countries, but in the long run were felt by the consumer as a result of reduced production," he said.

He said the low prices in the past meant that coffee producers

Jury Acquits Youth, 15, Of Father's Killing

WINNIPEG (CP)—Fifteen-year-old Raymond Ouellette has been acquitted of the murder of his father William Ouellette at their Elm Creek, Man., home, last April 15.

The father was shot with a .22 calibre rifle.

A full assizes court jury earlier accepted a voluntary statement from Raymond in which he admitted shooting his father. The jury was told by Mr. Justice J. T. Beaubien there seemed to be provocation. Witnesses testified Ouellette frequently mistreated his wife and children.

Mrs. Anne Ouellette said she had often rushed out of her farm home barefoot and in her nightgown to escape the drunken fury of her husband.

She said her husband approached her the night of April 15 with a beer bottle raised in his right hand.

"I did nothing. I couldn't... I heard a click and my husband fell. After he fell I was able to get up and go into the kitchen."

"I said to Raymond: 'What happened?'"

"He said, 'He's not going to kill my mother.'"

By ART STOTT

On one of the five-past-eight buses coming into town in the morning, you sit near the back at your own risk. You can figure that you're going to be somewhere in the middle of a raucous cacophony of breaking voices that passes for bonhomie among certain adolescents on their way to school.

What they lack in wit they make up in sound. And you can figure, too, that before many blocks some student is going to grab another's lunch and start heaving it around. It's uncomfortable. You can't help thinking that one of those packages may hold a tomato, and you're not sold on the control of the pitcher.

It's enough to make you agree with an opinion cited by Bernard Iddings Bell in last week's special Life Magazine issue on U.S. schools. The eminent Episcopal scholar noted that all disillusioned American observers of that country's educational scene "have come to share a simple common fear: we are producing—at great expense and with the most incongruous self-congratulation—a nation of Henry Aldriches."

THAT'S AN OPINION a passenger might form in the cold grey of 8 a.m., before his liver has adjusted itself and decided to live in reasonable harmony with his owner. It's a point of view on the current educational product that probably isn't any more accurate than a guy would get if he gazed to the academic heights reached by Peter Smith, whose scholarship record blazes so brightly at College. However you look at the average schoolboy—if there is an average schoolboy—you have to concede a point to Bob Heywood, of the Victoria High School staff—you can't group youth in a body and cover it with common characteristics, like an umbrella. Each one is different.

TO ENCOURAGE natural, constructive development, individual attention is needed. How are you going to get that with classes at their present sizes? Life Magazine devoted last week's entire issue to education. It's American education, of course, but it has certain points in common with the system that applies here. Henry Steele Commager, Columbia University's noted historian, suggests in his article that "A society proudly preoccupied with its own material accomplishments and well-being cannot fairly expect its schools to teach that the snug warmth of security is less meaningful than the bracing venture of freedom. In all this, to reform our schools is first to reform ourselves."

RIGHTLY OR wrongly the schools of this community have taken upon themselves the duty of providing training in some matters that used to be the exclusive province of the home. There's a reason for that. Educators are usually too polite to phrase it bluntly, but most of them might say in justification of such a course: "Look, the kids aren't getting the necessary training at home. Where else will they get it, if not in the schools?" Remarks like that, if spoken, would refer to other parents' children, not your own, of course.

Maybe the big problem in education today concerns the youngsters only indirectly. Maybe, as Commager suggests, the reformation starts with ourselves. You get the point from a remark of one of B.C.'s prominent educationists who was speaking privately on the province's efforts in alcohol education.

CHILDREN, HE SAID, are so foolish. They keep copying their elders. He recalls the day when a stranger was introduced to a community through a tea party. The practice persists in theory and in fact, but on many occasions the guests are holding glasses, not china. The results sometimes produce impressive results on the small fry.

The toughest job facing the schools is that of creating an interest in them among adults who don't want to be bothered. Everybody's interested in the kids. When Joe North used to take his collection can around the beer parlors to raise funds for the underprivileged, it was always heavier when he came out. The boys would chip in their dimes and quarters, and then order another round.

That isn't quite enough for the educational job. The interest has to be more sustained. The reform—and not only alcoholic—has to start with the adults.

Transferable Vote Unfair Says Winch

Cuts Socialist To One, Gives Others Two, Says C.C.F. Leader

Every voter for the free enterprise system will have two or more votes. Socialists will have only one under the single transferable ballot, C.C.F. Leader Harold Winch says in a statement issued today. Supporters of the C.C.F., he adds, could not consistently vote for a capitalist candidate.

May Increase Charge Over Knife Battle

City Prosecutor Claude Harrison revealed today he would lay a more serious charge against Anton Konkin, 62-year-old Victoria man arrested by police Oct. 10 in connection with the stabbing of John Novak, a 70-year-old acquaintance.

Konkin is now charged with assaulting Novak and occasioning grievous bodily harm. The prosecutor said the new charge will be that Konkin attacked Novak with intent to maim.

Conviction under the new charge could draw a maximum penalty of life imprisonment. The law provides a much lesser penalty for those who commit assault on the spur of the moment.

Konkin, who received three stomach wounds and one on his arm in his fight with Novak, is still in Jubilee Hospital, but may be released this evening. The court has fixed his bail at $1,000.

Novak, who was wounded twice in the back and once in the arm, is not yet well enough for release from hospital.

Broader Span On Same Piers Bridge Plan

Plans which Maj. J. R. Grant made for the city two years ago for a proposed new Point Ellice Bridge included a new superstructure on the existing three piers.

Also included was a 34-foot roadway with sidewalks both sides of the bridge. The present roadway is only 24 feet.

The bridge, as seen by Maj. Grant, would carry three lanes of traffic instead of the present two, and it would be a steel plate girder bridge.

"According to his plan, there would be only slightly more elevation," Cyril Jones, city engineer said.

"He also proposed that the water pipe would be carried under the bridge, not alongside as at present."

New Vegetables Arriving
For Meal-Time Interest

By PENNY SAVER

Variety continues to bring forth its merry self . . . and usually just in time to make shopping day a little more than a humdrum chore. For the good woman of the house, whose duty it is to please a hungry brood, the mere addition of a new fruit or vegetable will have the "boss" whistling away dem shoppin' day blues.

Swiss chard, for instance, is debuting at 9 pennies a pound, along with sweet potatoes, 11 cents a pound and brussels sprouts in 12 ounce "cello" packages, 22 cents.

Onions are at a peak just now, selling for as little as 5 pennies a pound for the No. 1 dry variety and the big Spanish beauties, onions that is, 2 pounds for 17 cents. Aha! Must not forget those little charmers, the fresh green onions. Aye, y! y! but they surely did tempt me this morning. The rascals showed Mom, pumpkins are weighing in at sizes that you might very well carry home in your shopping bag. The sum of 26 cents is the average price but should you be needing more, they're a pound for 6 cents.

Tipping the scales in almost every variety in the book, are apples . . . getting cheaper by the pound! Kings are being sold in 40-pound lots at $1.49 a box, by the pound, just a nickel! Wealthy, 4 pounds for 25 cents; Delicious, by name and taste, 2 pounds for 23 cents; McIntosh Reds, 2 pounds for 25 pennies, and in a 20-pound box, $1.75.

Still considering a grape jelly? You'll find a fair amount of local concord grapes still coming in town at 2 pounds for 25 cents. A fancy quality carrot and celery is due soon from over the line, so keep both big eyes wide open.

their firm green stems at 2 bunches for 15 cents.

Cauliflower is larger for your pennies this week, and 35 cents each is the price on them. Spinach, especially the local, dry, big-leaved variety, is something to shout about. For a pound, you'll pay 10 cents. For the avocado-eating members of the family, they'll find the fruit with a 35 cents each sign beside them.

From the sunny land of California has come the mighty cucumber. The price, 15 cents each. From the south, too, is Italian broccoli, 25 cents a pound; and honeydew melons, 30 cents each. Believe it or not, and I'm no Ripleyite, if you really want a cantaloupe, they are selling on a few counters at 15 cents each.

Next week-end will probably find Mom hard at it, as she goes to work on a pumpkin pie. Well,

MARY HAWORTH'S MAIL

Wife, 43, Shocked To Discover Husband's Will Provides Inadequately For Her; Has A Substantial Estate

Dear Mary Haworth: My husband and I have been married for 20 years, and recently he made his will, the terms of which are quite a shock to me. I should estimate that he (I can hardly say "we") is worth about $90,000. This includes real estate, business property and cash, and "our" home.

Ed's will leaves me $25,000 in trust, to be paid at $200 per month for 10 years, or until it runs out. I am to have the use of the home for the duration of my life, after which it goes into the trust estate, to be apportioned out to surviving members of his immediate family. The balance of his estate will go to cousins, nieces, brothers, et al, who are not in want by any standards. In fact his nieces are well-to-do in their own right.

I am just 43 now—Ed is 10 years older—and really I don't know what to say or do, to persuade him that he is doing a terrible thing. By that, I mean putting a time-limit on the "support" I shall get after he is gone. I am not counting on his dying and would sincerely grieve to lose him; but I just cannot understand his doing a thing like this. In the event he did die in the next few years, say when I am 55, I'd have $200 a month for a living. Unless I care to pay a lump sum to an old people's home and reside there.

I am not against Ed's leaving all his money in trust for the balance of my life, then to be paid to his family; but why cut me off this way? Please, can you help me in any way to persuade him that he's not being exactly fair? Or is he?

G. C.

WIFE'S PROTEST SEEMS WARRANTED

Dear G. C.: Since drafting wills is foreign to my routine, I've turned to a firm of good lawyers for an opinion on Ed's will, as to whether it is a decent or an unfair document, compared to the general practice. I am told that its terms are "quite exceptional" for an estate of this size.

"Eighty thousand dollars isn't a large estate from the legal viewpoint; but neither is it small," my consultants say. "Normally a man leaves the whole estate this size to his widow, either in trust for his lifetime, after which it may revert to his kin—as your correspondent suggests. Or he leaves it to her with no strings attached. If she is reckless with money or inexperienced in business, a provident husband usually establishes a trust estate, and names a trusted lawyer or bank officer to invest her funds productively."

By this definition of customary consideration for a widow in your circumstances, it appears that Ed has plotted short treatment for you; and ordinarily a lot of bad feeling is packaged in that kind of deal. Thus I can't think of a way to change his mind and win him to more humane concessions, without first getting to the core of what's irritating him about you, and helping him drop the griped attitude. Maybe he thinks you've never sufficiently appreciated him, or that you've always been too free with his hard-earned dough; ergo, he meanly intends to "teach you a lesson" after he's gone.

LAW IS KINDLIER THAN THIS SPOUSE

However, though the terms of his will are grudging, at least the inheritance laws in your jurisdiction are more generous with the widow. According to the laws in force and effect there, you may "renounce the will," as the legal phrase goes—i.e., waive its provisions for yourself—and claim your "inherent dower right and distributive share." The dower right gives you one-third share for life in all real estate; and the distributive share includes one-half share in all personal properties, such as bank deposits, stocks, furnishings, etc. My consultants say this should add up to a bigger slice than Ed's will decrees at the present writing.

Having furnished this information gratis, my legal advisers further say that "as an investment in peace of mind, you ought to discuss your anxieties with a good lawyer in your community." From such a man you may get precise details on your dower rights and how to invoke them and possibly also he could give you wise guidance in ironing out misunderstandings with your husband, so that a better will may be drawn before too late.

YOUR BABY AND MINE

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRID

It's inevitable that some day the baby will act as if he did not feel well and you will want to check his temperature to determine whether he is feverish. Mothers always take heart when there is no fever for then they feel sure not too much can be amiss.

There should be a rectal thermometer in the household where there is a small baby and a mouth thermometer for the use of the child old enough to hold it in the mouth and not bite down on it.

All thermometers are about the same. They have long dashes at and between the figures 94-96-98-etc., up to 110. There are four short dashes between each long one. These long dashes mark the whole degree of the fever and the short dashes one-fifth of a degree.

It takes a little practice to read a thermometer accurately. The first thing to do is to take the thermometer in hand and give it a brisk shake so as to send the mercury down below the normal mark which is noted on the column by a red arrow. If it is a rectal thermometer it should be smeared with some bland grease and then gently inserted in the rectum. Don't push it in, just hold it firmly and insinuate it.

When you take it out hold the thermometer in the right hand. Roll it back and forth carefully until your eyes discern the end of the silver or red line. Note which whole figure it is nearest and then check the number of small lines above that. Unless you want to leave the thermometer for the doctor to check on, you may then clean it as directed and put it away. Our leaflet No. 18, "Disease Preventives," discusses the various immunizations common to childhood. It may be had by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Myrtle Meyer Eldred in care of this newspaper.

The remarkable career of the tall, rugged woman has been highlighted by numerous distinctions since she joined the Fredericton Daily Gleaner staff more than a half century ago.

For some time the only woman city editor in Canada, Mrs. Mathewson was promoted to the city desk of the Gleaner in 1940. She is still "top man" in that department and continues to find time for welfare and other community service work.

The length of her career is unequalled by any other Canadian newspaper woman. At last year's convention of the Canadian Women's Press Club, she was honored as "grandmother" of the club.

Vicar Talks On Marriage Of No Interest To Lovers

DONCASTER, Lancashire, England (CP)—Out of every 1,000 courting couples and newlyweds, only one will attend talks on courtship, sex and marital problems.

So said Rev. G. Kirk, here to give a series of such talks, and his audience bore him out. Only 12 had attended in an area housing some 12,000.

The vicar, representing the Marriage Guidance Council and Moral Welfare Committee spoke to some 500 would-be brides and grooms, and has interviewed nearly 100 couples whose marriages have gone on the rocks.

There are girls who have been courting for two years, he said, who still do not know the nature of their young man's work. Others want marriage in terms of fitted carpets and chromium fittings. Some marry with a little common interest as a liking for the same dances, parties and films.

"This is the wrong basis for marriage," said the vicar.

Burgess Bedtime Story

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

Remember that today alone is all you have to call your own. —Honker the Goose.

They were off, Honker the Goose, Mrs. Honker and their sons and daughters, as fine young Geese as ever pointed bills toward the Sunny South at the end of a short summer in the Far North, and wondered where they were going and why. It was the beginning of their first great adventure. Also it was the start of their first long flight. Ever since flight feathers in their stout wings had grown big enough to lift them into the air they had kept trying them out by making short flights, seldom high above the land and water. Now Honker was leading them up, higher than they ever had flown before. Looking down they saw more of the Great World than ever they had seen before. Then Honker was no longer leading them up but straight away toward the far Sunny South.

Just after they started, another small family had joined them, glad to have Honker as their leader, for he was known among all his neighbors as one wise in the ways of the Great World. He had made the long journey many times and was to be trusted. As they flew his followers formed a flock in the shape of a wedge, the letter V tipped over, with Honker at the point. In this way none was kept from seeing ahead by the one just in front. Each could see ahead as if flying alone, yet each excepting Honker in the lead, was partly protected from the rush of air by the one in front. It was a perfect plan for a long flight.

As the young Geese watched the Great World unroll beneath them, for that is what seemed to be happening, the wonder of it stilled their usually noisy tongues. Geese often are noisy folk, you know. They dearly love to gabble. But on this first day of the great adventure there was no gabbling. They were too busy using their eyes to see their tongues. On every side as far as they could see stretched what from so high above looked like a beautiful carpet of many shades of green, some so dark as to seem almost black, others softly light. Scattered here and there bright colors, yellows and reds of all degrees. Silver threads wound in and out, some tiny and some shining broadly. Of course these were small streams and bigger rivers. Often there were small silvery spots, many of them in sight at once. These were small ponds. Now and then the green of the tree tops formed a distant frame for great gleaming bodies of water. These were lakes.

LATE START

They did not fly a great distance that first day. That is, it was not a great distance as Geese fly. They had started late that morning and it was only mid-afternoon when Honker led them down to a sheltered cove at the end of a small lake. The shore there was marshy and there was plenty of food. Honker seemed to know all about that place. He did. He had stopped there before. He had had it in mind from the time they had started.

It had been a short flight compared with some of the flights that would come later. Wise old Honker had made that flight short purposely. He knew that young wings not used to flying great distances would tire, and tired wings would make discouraged flyers. That would be a poor way in which to start a long journey.

Once down on the water the tongues that had kept so still during the wonder of that first flight were loosened. Such gabbling! Such excited gabbling as followed while their owners searched for and pulled up tasty roots of water plants along the marshy shore!

FLOCK GATHERS

Just after the Black Shadows had crept half way across the cove and in their midst the flock had gathered a little way out from shore, making ready for the night, the young Geese were startled by unfamiliar sounds at the edge of the water as if a very big person was walking in the shallow water. One was. As huddled close together, long necks stretched up to full length, they looked toward those frightening sounds, a great dark form appeared where the Black Shadows had not yet crept. Only Honker and Mrs. Honker and the older Geese who had joined them that morning were undisturbed.

"It is just Flathorns the Moose," said Honker, and began to dress some feathers under one wing.

Pastry Desserts Special Touch To Winter Meals

Desert on the menu is like the glamour pin or the gold braid on a costume. The costume may be of excellent material and well cut but appears very ordinary without the trimming. A meal may be nutritious and well-balanced but the addition of dessert gives it the special touch.

With cooler days appetite appeal turns to hot puddings of the batter or pastry class. Home economists of the Consumer Section, Canada Department of Agriculture suggest these tested recipes for cool weather desserts.

BROWNIE PUDDING

One cup sifted all-purpose flour, or 1 cup plus 2 tablespoons sifted pastry flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1/2 cup sugar, 3 tablespoons cocoa, 1/2 cup milk, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 2 tablespoons shortening, melted, 1/2 cup chopped walnuts (optional), 1/2 cup brown sugar, 1/2 cup cocoa, 1 1/2 cups hot water.

Mix and sift flour, baking powder, salt, sugar and cocoa. Add milk, vanilla and melted shortening, mix until smooth.

Add nuts. Pour into greased, 8-inch square cake pan. Mix

Butterscotch Upside-Down Cake

1 1/2 cups sifted Swans Down Cake Flour
1 1/2 teaspoons Culmet
Baking Powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
3/4 cup granulated sugar

4 tablespoons softened shortening
1 egg, well beaten
1/2 cup milk
1 teaspoon vanilla

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder, salt, and sugar; sift 3 times. Add shortening. Combine egg, milk, and vanilla. Add to flour mixture, stirring until all flour is dampened; then beat vigorously 1 minute.

For "Upside-down" Ingredients: Melt 4 tbsps. butter in an 8 x 8 x 2-inch pan over low heat. Add 1/2 cup brown sugar; cook and stir until thoroughly mixed. Arrange pineapple slices and maraschino cherries (chopped nuts, if desired), in pattern in pan. Turn in batter. Bake in moderate oven (350°F.) about 30 minutes. Serve warm, with whipped cream.

CAKE TALK by Frances Barton

There are two little tricks in cake-making, that make a great difference between getting a cake that is merely all right — and a cake that is really superb! (Of course, I'm assuming you'll use only the finest ingredients—including Swans Down Cake Flour.)

Incomplete creaming of shortening leaves undissolved sugar crystals in the cake batter. The result is a coarse-grained cake. To cream until "light and fluffy" as most of our recipes say, let the shortening stand at room temperature until soft. Gradually add the sugar, then beat thoroughly. The sugar should be dissolved as completely as possible in the fat — and enough air should be beaten in so that the mixture has a "whipped cream" appearance.

We do not usually depend on baking powder alone to give light, even-textured, perfectly risen cakes. The beating of the eggs is also very important. This puts enough air into the batter, to work hand in hand with the other leavening. When eggs are added separately, they should be beaten until very thick, light and a pale creamy color. Do not use a fork — but a rotary egg beater or electric mixer. Beat as much air into the eggs as possible before blending them with the shortening and sugar mixture.

SCROLL GOES ACROSS CANADA

TORONTO (CP)—A hand-printed illuminated scroll, carrying greetings to the British girl guides to the guides of Canada, starts from Toronto today on an aerial tour of Canada.

The 73 pages of beautiful handwork was presented by Princess Margaret to Canadian delegates at the world scout and guide conference in Britain last July, to be seen by as many Canadian guides as possible. The scroll now will be shown in every province.

On the eastern circle the scroll goes as far as St. John's, Nfld., and back through Northern Ontario, returning Dec. 4. Then it starts west from Toronto, Dec. 5, reaching Victoria Dec. 29.

Something Very Old

For the bride seeking something distinctly different, Parisian Jean Patou designed this medieval headpiece. The unique cowl swatches the throat and hair in white net adorned with satin leaves.

London Hat Show Has Global Theme For Autumn Season

LONDON (CP)—Travel and the glamor of distant lands provide the theme of a hat show given by Aage Thaarup, the Royal milliner.

China, Burma, Tibet and Siam all lend their inspiration to Thaarup's autumn show, entitled "Round The World In 35 Minutes."

The global trend starts with a flower-girl bonnet in hand-knitted black astrakhan, intended to suggest the flower girls of London's Piccadilly Circus.

Scotland is represented by Glengarry bonnet fur felts of gay tartan greens with magnificent cockades. One has a flaming brush of tangerine osprey, the other an elaborate natural feather mount.

Denmark, a natural stopping place for Danish-born Thaarup, leads the way to the eastern countries. One example is a Burmese pagoda bonnet in black velvet with pointed crown encircled by thin bands of gilt bead-

ing. Decorating sprays of tiny temple bells suggest the tinkling measure of a temple dance.

China comes next with an enormous black velvet coole hat, edged with tiny gold tassels, and Iran inspires a black jersey turban-swathie with cheeky double swirl of soft topaz paradise plumes, set high above the temples on a stiffened jersey mount.

The show then soars into the planetary regions with a Mercury cap in hand-knitted, black-and-white candy stripes. Above a peakbrim, folds of material suggest a visor, topped by two mercurian wings in black patent leather.

Most glamorous hats in the collection are those designed for ritzy New York backgrounds.

Princess Margaret, who sometimes attends the hat shows, was absent on a Scottish visit. "We shall probably make a little Scottish cap to remember her," said Thaarup.

There's Right Way To Punish Children, Psychologist Says

WINNIPEG (CP)—Don't spank a mischievous child, says psychologist Joyce Burns of the University of Manitoba. The effects won't last.

Whipping a naughty child just arouses resentment against the parent, she said in an interview. It puts the parent in the role of bully.

What's the right way to punish? Well, Miss Burns says this way:

For younger children, isolation from companionship and normal activities and pastimes. Sending an unruly child from a classroom is an example of this form of punishment.

For older children, deprivation of a particular goal. But first make sure the child knows why the punishment is administered.

Punishment wrongly handled can cause a child to feel rejected, Miss Burns added. Parents must make it plain they disapprove of the child's act, and not of the child itself.

"Otherwise the child will feel it has lost its parents' affection," Miss Burns said there are two major problems in child development. One is a tendency by parents to discipline children too early, "when they should shelter them." The other is over-protection of children during school years "when they should experience successes and failures on their own."

The psychologist is giving a series of lectures on child study, sponsored by the Manitoba Federation of Home and School and the Winnipeg School Board.

Chicken Scores In Near East

CHICKEN TCHAKHOKHBELLI

Two 2-pound chickens (8 pieces), ¼ cup butter, 1 large onion, sliced, ½ cup sherry, ½ cup tomato juice, 1 teaspoon salt, pepper to taste.

Melt butter in frying pan. Add chicken and braise until light brown. Remove chicken, and place in baking pan. Sauté onion in butter left in frying pan. Then add all other ingredients—wine, tomato juice, paprika, salt, pepper, 1 cup water—and pour over chicken in baking dish. Bake in oven (400 degrees F.) without cover. Turn over after half-hour. Cook for another half-hour, then turn again and cook for 15 minutes. Serve with rice pilaf.

Sweet Potato Time

Autumn is here, so is sweet potato time—for those who like the brown tuber.

But it's a perishable vegetable and should be cooked quickly and served piping hot so the air won't rob them of their store of vitamins.

You can get the best food value by cooking them in their skins. But if you have to peel them do so just before using—or put the pared potatoes in salted water to keep them from darkening.

When planning meals remember sweet potatoes have vitamin and mineral value as well as taste.

Serve them baked—with butter—or mashed... and when you're serving them mashed here's a tip to vary the menu—mash them with orange juice—instead of milk—add a little grated orange rind, table fat and a few raisins.

Cans of single service cooked macaroni, spaghetti, chili con carne and baked beans are being packed in buffet-sized tins. They are just right for folks who live alone.

Home-Baked Bread Family Favorite; Sponge Method Easy For Beginners

OTTAWA—Home-baked bread may become a fashionable food again as mother tries to curb her jumping food budget.

With bread ranging around the 14-cent mark she may find it worth her while to bake the occasional batch. She will find her family fully appreciative of the treat.

Here are a few suggestions either for housewives who have never before tried their hand at bread-making, or those whose skill has become a little rusty for lack of use.

Sponge method (overnight)—As recommended by the consumer section Dominion Department of Agriculture.

Ingredients: One cake dried yeast, ¼ cup lukewarm water, 4 cups liquid (water, milk or potato water), 3 tablespoons sugar, 2 tablespoons salt, 12 cups sifted all-purpose flour (approximately), 2 tablespoons melted fat.

Scald liquid, then cool to lukewarm. Crumble yeast cake and soak in the quarter cup lukewarm water for one-half hour. Add sugar, dissolved yeast and half the flour to the lukewarm liquid. Beat until smooth. Use a bowl sufficiently large to allow sponge to rise.

Cover and leave sponge at room temperature (65-70 degrees fahrenheit) overnight or until sponge is light and porous and more than double in bulk.

Second mixing: Stir sponge, add salt and fat, melted but not hot. Add enough of the remaining flour to make a dough that does not cling to the bowl and is easily handled.

Kneading: Turn dough on to a floured board or cloth and knead 10 minutes or until smooth and elastic and small bubbles show on the surface.

FIRST RISING

Form dough into a ball and place in a lightly-greased bowl. Turn dough over once or twice in the bowl so that the surface becomes lightly greased. This prevents a crust from forming on the dough.

Cover the bowl and let stand in a warm place 80 to 85 degrees fahrenheit away from draughts until dough retains a fingerprint when pressed lightly or is double in bulk (about two hours).

Punch dough, fold edges into centre and turn dough over with smooth side up.

Cover and let rise again until dough retains a fingerprint when lightly pressed (about one hour).

Turn dough on to board and divide in pieces which will fill baking-pans. Allow to stand a few minutes before shaping which is done by kneading pieces slightly and shaping into loaves or rolls. Place in greased pans and lightly grease surface of dough.

Cover and set in a warm place to rise until dough reacts again to the fingerprint test (about one hour).

Baking: Bake in a moderately hot oven (375 degrees fahrenheit) until the loaves or rolls shrink from the sides of the pan and give a hollow sound when tapped (about one hour for bread, 25 to 30 minutes for rolls).

If a soft tender crust is desired, brush loaves with milk or fat as soon as taken from oven. Remove from pans immediately and place on racks or set crosswise on top of pans. Do not cover while still warm. Quantity: Four loaves of approximately 1½ pounds each.

School Lunch Nutritious If Right Fillings Used

OTTAWA—Those same old sandwiches day after day—they're monotonous to make and can become pretty dull eating unless mother determines to introduce a little variety into junior's school lunch.

Health experts warn that a child's health as well as his progress and interest in school may be affected by the meals he eats. In view of this, the school lunch should be regarded as more than just a mid-day snack. It is a mid-day meal. Sandwiches are easy to carry and nutritious if ample portions of the right fillings are selected.

Meat and Poultry—Sliced, with lettuce. To left-over meat loaf, bologna or liver, add grated onion, celery or carrot.

Fish—Flaked with cucumber or tomato juice.

Egg—(Scrambled or hard cooked) chopped or mashed with diced celery, parsley or chopped onion.

Cheese—Sliced or grated, plain or with onion, lettuce, celery, parsley, jam, jelly or nuts.

Peanut Butter—Plain or with honey or molasses, banana or other fruit.

Vegetables—Shredded lettuce, sliced tomato, cucumber, radish, chopped raw cabbage, carrot with raisins or grated cheese, baked beans.

Fruit—Chopped raisins, dates or prunes.

Canada-Wide Search For Diapers

OTTAWA (CP)—Dr. Lotta Hirschmanova leaves tomorrow for western Canada in search of 11,000 diapers.

She is the fervid executive director of the Unitarian Services Committee of Canada and she wants the diapers for Greek babies.

Dr. Hirschmanova was in Greece a few months ago and she saw mothers using old newspapers and rags.

She told the story when she returned to Ottawa and quickly got contributions equivalent to 1,000 diapers which are going forward next week. According to her survey, the urgent need is for 11,000 more.

Tea Cocktail

One tea bag, 1 cup boiling water, 1 cup grapefruit juice, 2 teaspoons lemon juice, cracked ice.

Add boiling water to tea bag and brew for five minutes. Remove the bag and allow the brew to drop to room temperature. Put into a cocktail shaker or jar with tight-fitting cover, and fruit juices and cracked ice. Cover tightly and shake vigorously until the ice is practically dissolved. Serves 4 to 6 persons.

Lemon flavored tea biscuits also have been suggested as an accompaniment for iced tea. Just add grated rind of one lemon and a tablespoon of sugar to your favorite baking powder biscuit recipe. If desired, garnish with slices of candied lemon peel.

B.C. Turns Trade Balance With U.S.

By HARRY YOUNG, Times Business Editor

A distinct change in the trend of British Columbia's external trade is noted in the figures for the first half of 1950, as presented by the B.C. Bureau of Economics and Statistics.

The adverse balance of imports over exports in trade with U.S.A. through B.C. ports shows a big swing in the other direction. In the first half of 1949, exports to U.S. were $64,000,000 and imports $70,000,000. In the first half of 1950, imports were reduced to $66,000,000, while exports soared to $99,000,000. The adverse balance of six million dollars was converted into a favorable balance of $33,000,000.

As against this the United Kingdom trade swung the other way. For all countries, B.C. exports were $211,000,000 and imports $122,000,000, as against $235,000,000 and $108,000,000 respectively for a corresponding period in 1949.

The decline in British Columbia exports, during the first half of 1950 is due, according to the B.C. Bureau of Economics and Statistics, to drops in agricultural products, and sale of ships. The primary products of the province were not affected by the decline. In June, fishery products and wood products and paper were each up five million dollars, while chemicals were up by one million dollars.

By the use of a composition of glass fibre and resin, a North England firm of yacht builders have just built a 16-foot boat with a hull weighing only 40 pounds and moulded entirely from one piece. The boat is the first of its kind in the country and opens up possibilities of mass producing sea-going craft of larger types.

The boat is a prototype of a new range of racing dinghy known as the Wildfire, considered specially suitable for hot climates. Unlike wood, there is no seasoning required and the hull will not split, crack or warp. It is proof against pests and fungi and the material is claimed to be twice as strong as aluminum alloy.

Construction is simple. Layers of glass fibre are placed over a concrete mould which resembles an upturned hull. Another mould is then laid over the top and the resin drawn through the matrix of glass under vacuum. The resin has an accelerator added which causes it to set after impregnation.

The step taken sometime ago by the B.C. Telephone Company in splitting its Vancouver Island directories into separate books has not been popular with the civic affairs group of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce. They sent a letter recently asking the B.C. Telephone Company to return to their old directory which covered the whole island.

Since that letter was sent the October issue of the directory is out. Victoria is again on its own with nearby exchanges, Ganges, Keating, Mayne Island, Sidney and Sooke, thrown in. The alteration is in the upland production. Now, instead of Duncan, Nanaimo, Alberni and Courtenay having separate books, these exchanges are all grouped in a single volume.

"It makes us feel more out in the cold than ever," says one Victoria business man. "Much of our business from upland came from our listing in the old consolidated telephone directory. Now we are debarred from a lucrative market."

Apparently there is not much the Victoria business folk can do about it. The B.C. Telephone people say that Victoria has now sufficiently grown up to have a book of its own, and that if any Victoria business feels it wants to have a classified entry in the upland book, there is no rule to prevent its doing so.

Sales Clerks Weak Spot In Merchandising

One serious discrepancy in the pattern of modern-day merchandising is that the persons who handle the final phase of selling often know very little about the articles they handle, Archie D. Baillie, managing director, Felt and Textiles of Canada Ltd., told the Victoria Kiwanis Club Tuesday.

Quoting from the findings of a recent American survey, Mr. Baillie said that if it was assumed the designer of a product had 100 per cent knowledge of that product, then distributors could be expected to have about 75 per cent knowledge of the product, and sales clerks about 2 per cent.

Mr. Baillie went on in his talk to blow holes in the theory that the world beats a path to the door of the man who builds a better mouse trap.

"No matter how good your product is, you have to do a good merchandising job if it's going to sell," he said.

Mr. Baillie heralded newspaper advertising as one of the finest ways of familiarizing the public with a product and creating a demand for it.

He observed that in an American city where the three daily papers were recently affected by a strike, merchants found sales dropped off 10 to 50 per cent in the first week, because people didn't have ads to induce them to make purchases.

With respect to display and distribution, Mr. Baillie paid high tribute to Victoria merchants. "Victoria doesn't need to take off its hat to any other city in Canada when it comes to merchandising," he said. "The stores here know their business and serve their customers well."

ALBERTA OIL REPORT

Association Seeks New Plan On Marketing

(Special To The Times)

CALGARY—Alberta's oil production potential and the markets available have reached such divergence that the Western Canada Petroleum Association believes a plan of proration is necessary, G. W. Auxier executive vice-president of the Association told the Alberta Petroleum board at a hearing to consider the question Monday.

Following long discussion, the association presented what was described as a compromise of many conflicting views on the market problem facing Alberta. Plan had been worked out by the technical committee of the association and was offered as an initial approach which the association considered worthy of a trial.

Under the plan three factors governed the market allowable of a well. First a "living wage" or floor—production, secondly depth, the economic factor, and thirdly ability of the well to produce, Conservation Board allowable. The association projected mid-1950 market as 125,000 barrels a day.

A total of 1,529 producing wells above those deducted would after deducting be given each 23 barrels a day living wage—32,240 barrels.

The hearing closed Monday afternoon. Next step is a decision from Alberta's Conservation Board. With most parties agreeing that proration had become necessary it appeared only days or weeks away. A compromise on the depth issue was expected by the observers. Even so this would place the quota near the figures as suggested by the W.C.P.A. It may be expected that Redwater will get between 67 and 70 barrels a day and Leduc D-3 between 71 and 75 and D-2 between 67 and 70. These figures are based on an assumed market of 125,000 barrels a day next year with numbers of wells having increased as outlined above.

THE DOCTOR SAYS Lice Dangerous As Well As Irritating

By EDWIN P. JORDAN, M.D.

To have lice is embarrassing, uncomfortable, and can be dangerous. Lice carry diseases such as typhus or jail fever. They are best got rid of promptly—or, better still, never acquired. Some people seem to have a special attraction for lice. Lice will leave the bodies of those who are less attractive to them for those who seem, for some unknown reason, to be preferable.

Personal cleanliness is the most important part of prevention. There is no doubt that bathing in warm water and use of soap at least once a week, together with frequent changes into clean clothing, reduces the chances of acquiring lice. Crowding acts to spread lice infestation. Under overcrowded living conditions these vermin are frequently found even among clean families. They are particularly serious in wartime.

SEVERAL KINDS

Several kinds of lice may infest human beings. Most of them prefer the human scalp, except for the so-called "crab louse," which goes to the groin. There are now several satisfactory methods of killing lice and getting them off the human body. Among these newer methods are the use of DDT powder, a substance known as benzyl benzoate, and a kind of bomb made from pyrethrum, which can be sprayed over the entire body in a few seconds. The last-mentioned method requires a good place to use the bomb. In order to make any of these treatments successful, however, it is important to follow directions closely and in the case of head lice, to guard against injuries to the eyes.

EGGS HATCH ON BODY

Lice lay eggs, or nits, on the body. These hatch in about seven days. The nits are not destroyed by most forms of treatment, so that more than one treatment is often necessary. DDT, however, is the exception because it lasts until after the nits are hatched.

Lice aid in the spread of several diseases; they should not be tolerated. The female louse lays from 50 to 150 eggs a day and the average louse will live from 30 to 40 days.

Judge Bars Police Movies As Evidence

WINNIPEG (CP)—Admission of police movies as evidence in an Assize Court trial here was barred Tuesday by Mr. Justice P. J. Montague.

The movies were offered at the trial of John, Peter and William Kissick, brothers, and Mrs. Sally Smallwood, on charges of conspiracy under the Oplum and Narcotic Drugs Act.

The pictures purported to show one of the accused selling drugs on a downtown Winnipeg street. If admitted, they would have been the first shown in a Canadian trial court.

Mr. Justice Montague also ordered the release of a Crown witness in the case, Mrs. Rebecca Joss, who had been held overnight after refusing to answer questions in court.

Victoria Units To Observe Signals Day

Signals Day will be celebrated Nov. 4 in camps and military centres wherever members of the Royal Canadian Corps of Signals are stationed.

In Victoria the signal units at Work Point Barracks will celebrate with a social evening. The officers commanding asks all past and present members of R.C.C.S. to attend at signal centre at 7:30 in the evening, together with their wives and lady friends.

Scientists On Trips

PARIS (Reuter)—Ten French scientists who wintered in Adelle Land, Antarctica, have started spring dog sled trips into the interior, they radioed to Paris today.

Boasts Pact Defence

THE HAGUE (Reuter)—Holland will boost her Atlantic Pact defence spending by another $42,000,000 under terms of a supplementary budget announced in Parliament today by Finance Minister Pieter Liefkink.

Dies Of Injuries

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Bjorn Rapala, 25, of Windsor, died today of injuries from a bus-truck collision last night that sent the bus crashing through the wall of a small shop and injured 10 other persons.

WANT RADIO EQUIPMENT

Radio equipment which the police department will dispose of will be sold to the Victoria Short Wave Club for a nominal sum. It was agreed at City Council meeting Tuesday.

CAR PROWLED

A set of draughting instruments worth $35 and a $10 car jack, were stolen from the car of Ronald N. Parker, 408 Hillside Avenue, city police report.

The city will advertise for tenders for the sale of the Duck property on Broad Street, following a decision reached at Tuesday's City Council meeting.

A portion of the property houses the city welfare at the present time.

TWO MILLION GEESSE SEEN

HANNAH BAY, Ont. (CP)—On the bleak coast of James Bay, remote from civilization, nature has again staged its awe-inspiring spectacle of a mass migration of wild life.

Some 2,000,000 geese are estimated to have passed on their race southward from polar regions to the ricefields of Louisiana.

The migration, just ended after four weeks, was a paradise of limit bags every day.

The FORMER MISS FREY

By Edwin Rutt

Copyright 1950 by NEA Service, Inc.

THE STORY: The former Ede Frey, whose marriage to Peter Flood has not been happy in under terms of her father's will, in charge of Frey & Company, a successful advertising agency. The firm is threatened with the loss of the Morn-Glo soap account, which is the largest handled by the agency. At a meeting with Lewis Northcott, advertising manager of Morn-Glo, she is told representatives of other agencies have approached him and that she must present a campaign that is better than those. Ede calls her staff, including Dan Reagan and her brother Jeffrey, into a conference.

XIV

Jeffrey Frey remained behind in his sister Ede's office after Stoneham and Vernon had left. He fiddled with his cigarette lighter, dropped it, retrieved it, looked from Ede to Reagan and back again.

"Well," he muttered finally, "guess I'll be going, too." The slam of the door behind him was unnecessarily loud.

Ede relaxed and smiled at Reagan. "What are you waiting for, Dan?"

Reagan's big jaw was thrust out. "To hear what is behind all this."

"There's something, of course," Ede confessed. "I didn't want to say anything in front of Chuck and Pat Vernon, but other agencies have been sniping at Morn-Glo."

Reagan nodded. "I've suspected it."

SOMETHING COOKING

"It worries me," she said, her wide, smooth forehead crinkling in a frown. "But Northcott himself worries me more."

"In what way?"

"He intimates that if we could match the ideas—bright ones, he called them—that the others brought in, the business would be safe. But I don't know. I'm beginning to agree with you. Northcott has something cooking. But the funny part is that I can't tell why I feel it."

"Me, neither," said Reagan, with notable disregard for grammar. "But I feel it, all the same. The guy's a mystery."

"What can we do about him, Dan?"

Reagan shook his head. "Nothing that I can see right now. Could be that Northcott really does want a fresh advertising slant and nothing else."

"Well, maybe," Ede was non-committal. "But I couldn't quite make him out. I don't know whether he's for or agin us."

"Better say, 'agin' till we know different," Reagan said cautiously. He arose and walked restlessly about the room. Well, it's nearly 5 o'clock and you'll be wanting to get home. I don't suppose, though... He stopped.

"What don't you suppose, Dan?"

Reagan almost blurted it. "That you'd let me buy you a cocktail?"

She knew that he had nerved himself to ask her. Outside of business, Dan Reagan, hard-shooting Irishman from the wrong side of the tracks, was unaccustomed to mingling in the higher social brackets. She said promptly: "Why not? I think I've earned it after my little bout with Northcott. As a matter of fact, Dan, I'll let you buy me two."

RESTFUL PLACE

The Regent Room was a place of thick blue carpets and countless mirrors. As she entered, Ede had the feeling of stepping into a kind of glittering darkness. But once her eyes became focused, she realized there was light in the room. But it was subdued light, dim and soothing. A tiny bar, with blue-leather and chromium stools, was just off the foyer. And the only music came from a single piano played by a gentleman who seemed barely to touch the keys with the tips of his fingers. In Ede's book, the Regent Room was the most restful cocktail lounge in New York.

She and Reagan found a corner table.

After Reagan gave her orders to a deferential waiter, Ede lit a cigarette and leaned back. After a moment, she said, "Suppose we were to try a direct frontal attack on Northcott?"

"How do you mean?"

"Well, simply face him down. Tell him, frankly, that we think it would improve our relations if he'd show us his whole hand."

"You don't actually know that he isn't showing," Reagan reminded her.

"We don't know. But we're 99 per cent sure. Do you think it would work, Dan, or am I being naive?"

"I wouldn't call it that," Reagan said. "You're not the naive type. But, after all, you are pretty new to this business. If you did that, Northcott would simply evade you. He'd swear he was only interested in getting the best advertising job for his product. He'd certainly admit to no ulterior motive, if he has one. No, I think we'll have to find another way of getting at him."

ON DEFENSIVE

Ede made a gesture of impatience. "And, meanwhile, he's got us on the defensive. He can play along with us and then strike, whenever he wants to."

"That," said Reagan, "is the advertising business. Agencies are always on the defensive because clients like to put them there."

The waiter brought the drinks. Ede was just lifting her glass when there came a slight commotion in the doorway of the Regent Room, and the sound of a light gay laugh. The laugh had a very familiar ring. Ede looked up quickly.

Her sister Jenn was just climbing on one of the blue-and-chromium stools at the little bar. With her was a tall man whose sleek dark hair was liberally sprinkled with grey. Hamilton Grievie, Ede thought immediately, had developed into the

PROBER HITS CIVIC LAXITY IN PT. ALBERNI

B.C. Inspector To Submit Data On Island Case

PORT ALBERNI (CP)—Deputy Municipal Minister B.C. Bracewell today denounced the handling of civic affairs in Port Alberni.

He presided at a two-day inquiry into civic finances and when he adjourned the hearing he said:

"There has been an utter lack of appreciation of the principles and the requirements of municipal administration."

The inquiry was ordered following charges by William J. Carr, board of works time-keeper.

Mr. Bracewell declared that "procedures are inadequate, that 'controls are incomplete,' and that 'attitudes are undesirable.'"

The inquiry was adjourned indefinitely, pending possible further hearings and preparation of a report for the cabinet.

Mayor L. K. Jordan and other civic officials, who testified, emphasized city officials had no intention of wrongdoing even though they may have been technically in error.

It had been a common practice for employees to buy goods at a discount through the city.

Chartered accountant George C. Church of Nanaimo reported that Port Alberni books were "in excellent condition."

He had not been particularly alarmed by a 1949 over-expenditure, largely due to confusion over wording of the government act. He recommended rewording to guide auditors more closely.

Charges that $50,000 in sewer funds had been misused were denied by Mayor Jordan.

S.A. TO KEEP TAMBORINE

TORONTO (CP)—The Salvation Army in Canada is not considering "retirement" of the tambourine as its official collection plate.

Maj. A. Brown, the army's publicity director, said today collectors are using the tambourine "less and less," but that it remains the official collection plate.

U.N. TROOPS TO STOP SHORT OF BORDER

South Koreans To Chase Reds To Manchuria

TOKYO (AP)—Informed sources today (Thursday) said United States and British troops in Korea will stop at least 20 miles short of the Manchurian border.

They said the purpose was to minimize the dangers of a border clash. Korea borders on Russian Siberia as well as on Communist China's Manchuria.

South Korean forces will go on to the border in pursuit of Korean Communist remnants, these sources said.

U.S. and British forces also will be used to root out Red units that might remain sufficiently intact to form a new army, the informants reported.

Most military circles here believe that the neighboring Communist will do nothing more to help the shattered North Korean army as long as Allied forces remain in Korea.

South Korean troops thrust within 32 miles of the Manchurian border tonight in the drive to end the war.

North Koreans fled in oxcarts and afoot before five northward driving Allied divisions.

The South Korean 6th Division was reported closest to the border. It was four miles west of Hoemoktong and about 20 miles northwest of Huihchon in north central Korea.

The 6th veered northwest at Huihchon, taking the shortest route to the border-marking Yalu River.

Almond To Meet Toronto Ringman

VANCOUVER (CP)—Frankie Almond, Canadian featherweight boxing champion in this part of the country, said today he will definitely meet Davey Mitchell of Toronto in a non-title bout.

But where or when has not yet been decided.

Len Gervais, Almond's manager, said three promoters are bidding for the bout, including Jack (Deacon) Allen of Toronto.

"Quite frankly," said Gervais, "it depends on who makes the best offer, and on certain other arrangements."

U.K. Soccer Results

LONDON (Reuter)—Results of soccer matches in the United Kingdom today:

Football Association 6, Royal Air Force 1.

Army 1, Aston Villa 3.

Ulster Cup Semifinal: Glentworth 4, Cliftonville 1.

New Stop Light

The city's newest stop light, located at the intersection of Douglas and Fisgard Streets, will go into operation at 4 p.m. today.

Pet Raccoon Prefers Ice Cream

When Stan Pollard, Oshawa, Ont., found a motherless raccoon in the woods near there some months ago it was too weak to eat and he had to force milk into its mouth to save its life. Now a household pet, Pete, the raccoon, thrives on ice cream, candies and raw meat.

DECISION NEARS ON VOLUNTEERS

OTTAWA (BUP)—The destiny of Canada's special United Nations brigade likely will be decided Saturday at the North Atlantic Treaty defence committee meeting in Washington.

A defence spokesman said today.

The spokesman said Defence Minister Brooke Claxton could be expected to make an announcement about the future of the volunteer force when he returns to Ottawa from the talks.

Claxton planned to meet with defence chiefs of the other countries to map the defence of Western Europe, where more than half of the 9,250-member brigade was almost certain to be assigned.

Developments Tuesday in New York and Washington provided a strong indication that the bulk of the brigade, recruited to serve either with the U.N. or with the North Atlantic organization, would be posted to Europe.

External Affairs Minister Lester B. Pearson proposed in New York that members of the United Nations raise volunteer armies for police duty in Western Europe.

"If U.N. members accept this recommendation," Pearson said, "the U.N. will never again be in a position in which it was last June, when no international forces were available for action in Korea."

A few hours earlier in Washington, military leaders of the 12 Atlantic Pact nations voted for a combined British-American-French plan calling for "utmost" speed in setting up a vast unified defence force for Western Europe, including the appointment of a supreme command.

Tibet Bows As Communists Invade Her

HONGKONG (UP)—The remote little theocracy of Tibet, on the roof of the Himalayan mountains, has decided to surrender to the Chinese Communists and will start negotiations soon in hope of keeping as much of its prized autonomy as possible, dispatches said tonight.

A press dispatch from Peking, the Communist capital, said that the men who rule for the teenage "Living Buddha" had agreed to "negotiate a basis upon which Tibet will accept Chinese Communist sovereignty."

Ford Will Hold Car Price Line

DETROIT (UP)—Henry Ford II put General Motors and Chrysler on the spot today with an announcement Ford would hold the price line despite spiralling costs.

The youthful head of Ford Motor Company surprised the automobile capital with his statement that Ford would not boost prices, even in the face of a $78,000,000 jump in labor and material costs brought on by recent wage increases and soaring steel prices.

All six independent auto-makers—Packard, Kaiser-Frazer, Nash, Willys-Overland, Hudson and Studebaker—have upped prices within the past two months.

Spender Says Nations Still Distrust Russ

LAKE SUCCESS, N.Y. (UP)—Australia and Syria set the ball rolling today to follow up President Truman's call for "foolproof" world-wide disarmament.

Foreign Minister Percy Spender of Australia said the West would welcome peace and disarmament.

But, added Spender, first the U.N. should give Russia a year or more to prove its peaceful intentions.

Spender welcomed President Truman's call for "foolproof" disarmament. He said that if there was proof that Russian designs "are not aggressive," then no country would be more willing than his to disarm. But, said Spender, "to ask us to disarm in the face of what has happened in the past few years, is, I would suggest, a mockery."

Faris el Khoury, chief of the Syrian delegation at the United Nations, said he also planned to introduce a measure calling for the combining of the atomic energy and conventional arms commissions into one group.

El Khoury said he had decided on such a move even before Mr. Truman's speech to the U.N. General Assembly in which he suggested establishment of a "new and consolidated disarmament commission to study the problem."
